Enticer still lurks in area

Police hope 19 leads will turn into arrest of suspect

ALEC JUNG

Another incident of possible child enticement, this time in Lindenhurst, has officials working together to catch the suspect.

There was an incident in Lindenhurst, March 19 where a suspect tried to pick up a 10-year-old child at Sand Lake Road near Thornwood Road, according to Commander Joe Moravec of Lindenhurst police.

"The suspect approached the boy, pulled down his window and the boy ran away," Moravec said.

Moravec said police have stepped up patrols at schools and bus stops. He added police are having Officer Friendly enter the schools and refresh students on safety tips.

Three incidents of attempted child enticement last week in Lake Villa Township had school and police officials warning parents and students to be wary of strangers approaching children.

There have been reports of a child enticer in Grayslake and down into Chicago.

Lake County Sheriff's Department also is working with the communities to apprehend the suspect.

"We have 19 leads and are hopeful one of them pans out into an arrest," said Lt. Rick Eckenstahler, of the sheriff's department.

Eckenstahler said the department has been talking with Area 5 detectives in Chicago to see if there is a connection between incidents there and ones in Lake County.

"We don't want to rule anything out. If he has a car he can move from the city to the suburbs in an hour," Eckenstahler said.

He added it is highly unlikely See ENTICER page A10

Township sees contested races

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Antioch Township has three contested races in the April 1 general election.

The key battle is for township supervisor. Township Trustee Tim Osmond is facing a challenge from Activist Carole Jonites.

Osmond is a two-term trustee and has been on the Antioch Plan Commission. He is the chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad, owns Osmond Insurance and is a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs.

Jonites is the founder of United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch (UHAUA) and president of Felter's Homeowners Association. She is a member of the Alliance for Better Government, American Association of Retired Persons and Women of the Moose.

Running for the four township trustee slots are incumbents Judith Davis and Claudette Skvarce, along with newcomers Ardeen Harris, Roy Sackschewsky, Wanda Schaefer and Steve Smouse.

Two candidates are seeking the assessors office. They are Deputy Assessor Heather Kufalk-Marotta and Michael Mueller. Both are state certified assessors and deputy assessors.

Highway Commissioner Mark Ring is unopposed as is clerk candidate Kathleen Smith.

Antioch Mayor Marilyn Shineflug along with trustees Ron Cunningham, Dorothy Larson, and Marvin Oldenburger are unopposed.

There is no race for Antioch Public Library trustee. Candidates Phyllis Ann Kakacek, Eugene LaFave and Kerry Astar have no opposition.

Trustees hope complaints speed up building of new post office

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Antioch Township trustees expressed surprise when they were told the U.S. Postal service has no documented complaints about the Antioch Post Office.

"I am amazed about that," said Trustee Tim Osmond.

Trustee Claudette Skvarce told trustees Antioch AARP officials indicated that there hasn't been a complaint regarding the Antioch Post Office in three years reported to postal officials.

Which was news to Antioch Post Office

Supervisor Jerry Bohmann, who said there have been complaints filed.

The main gripe residents have against the current post office is parking. There are only two spaces adjacent to the building while additional parking must be accessed on Toft Avenue.

Antioch postal officials have been working with site locators to find a different post site, but nothing definite has been worked out.

"The problem is Lake County is such a growth area that there are other offices in See COMPLAINTS page A10

Township to choose new assessor, supervisor

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township has two individuals squaring off for both the supervisor and assessor posts in April 1.

Both Township Trustee Tim Osmond and activist Carole Jonites are seeking the supervisor seat. Both candidates offer a vast difference in approach they say they will take to the job.

Osmond has said he will seek out input from throughout the township on what the citizens want for township government. He points out he is limited by the statutes governing township law.

Jonites asked the residents what they wanted in a survey and said she will support added services such as added office hours and a mobile health clinic.

Jonites favors the formation of a Township Plan Commission while Osmond has questioned the effectiveness of such a commission.

Osmond is a two-term township trustee. He is the chief of the Antioch Rescue Squad and a member of the Antioch Chamber of Commerce, Lions and Rotary clubs. He was a previous member of the Antioch Planning Commission.

Jonites is the founder and president of United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch (UHAUA). She also is president of the Felter's subdivision association and member of American Association of Retired Persons and Women of the Moose.

Osmond stresses his 20 years of business experience as owner of an insurance company will aid him in preparing budgets and with residents' concerns. He plans to keep a full schedule as supervisor even though he may not be in the office for 40 hours a week.

Jonites says her accounting experience will benefit the township. She added she will keep full-time office hours.

In the assessor race, both candidates, Heather Kufalk-Marotta and Mike Mueller have extensive experience. Both are deputy assessors and both are state certified.

Marotta said she intends to extend the office hours and provide more information to residents.

Mueller stresses he wants to resolve assessment problems at the local level without having residents go to the county for a review board hearing. He said he wants each person coming to the assessors office for a question or complaint to be treated professionally.

Six want to be town trustee

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Township residents have a bevy of choices as six candidates are competing for four slots.

On the ballot are incumbents Judith Davis and Claudette Skvarce, along with newcomers Ardeen Harris, Roy Sackschewsky, Wanda Schaefer and Steve Smouse. Each candidate was given an opportunity to explain what they hope to accomplish and why they feel they are the best candidate for office.

Skvarce is seeking her second term. She wants to see a policy in place for the township vehicle and for the board to provide more information to residents.

"The board should provide more information to the people so they know all the services available to them," Skvarce said.

Skvarce is a former Antioch trustee, former Exchange Club president, started the Fourth of July Committee, former president of St. Peter Council of Women.

Harris is employed as an assistant for the Special Education District of Lake County. She feels she has the life experience and commitment necessary to be an effective trustee. She feels the township board should provide more information to residents.

"I have the experience to make a difference. I will listen to the residents and be their voice," Harris said.

Harris is past president of Grass Lake school board and PTO, she volunteered for many events at St. Peter and with the Disabled American Veterans.

Sackschewsky works for ComEd as a nuclear operator. His goal is to open up meetings and provide residents with the most information as possible.

"We should not have to use the Freedom of Information Act to get information about the township," Sackschewsky said. "We should be able to have a copy of the bills before they are approved."

Sackschewsky is Chairman of Against Riverboat Casinos (ARC), chairman of Alliance for Better Government, vice chairman of Lake County Conservation Alliance and is a precinct committeeman.

Schaefer is employed at a subsidiary to Baxter Healthcare. She feels she has the ability to work with a variety of people.

"I have no axe to grind... I feel I can work well with whoever is elected," Schaefer said.

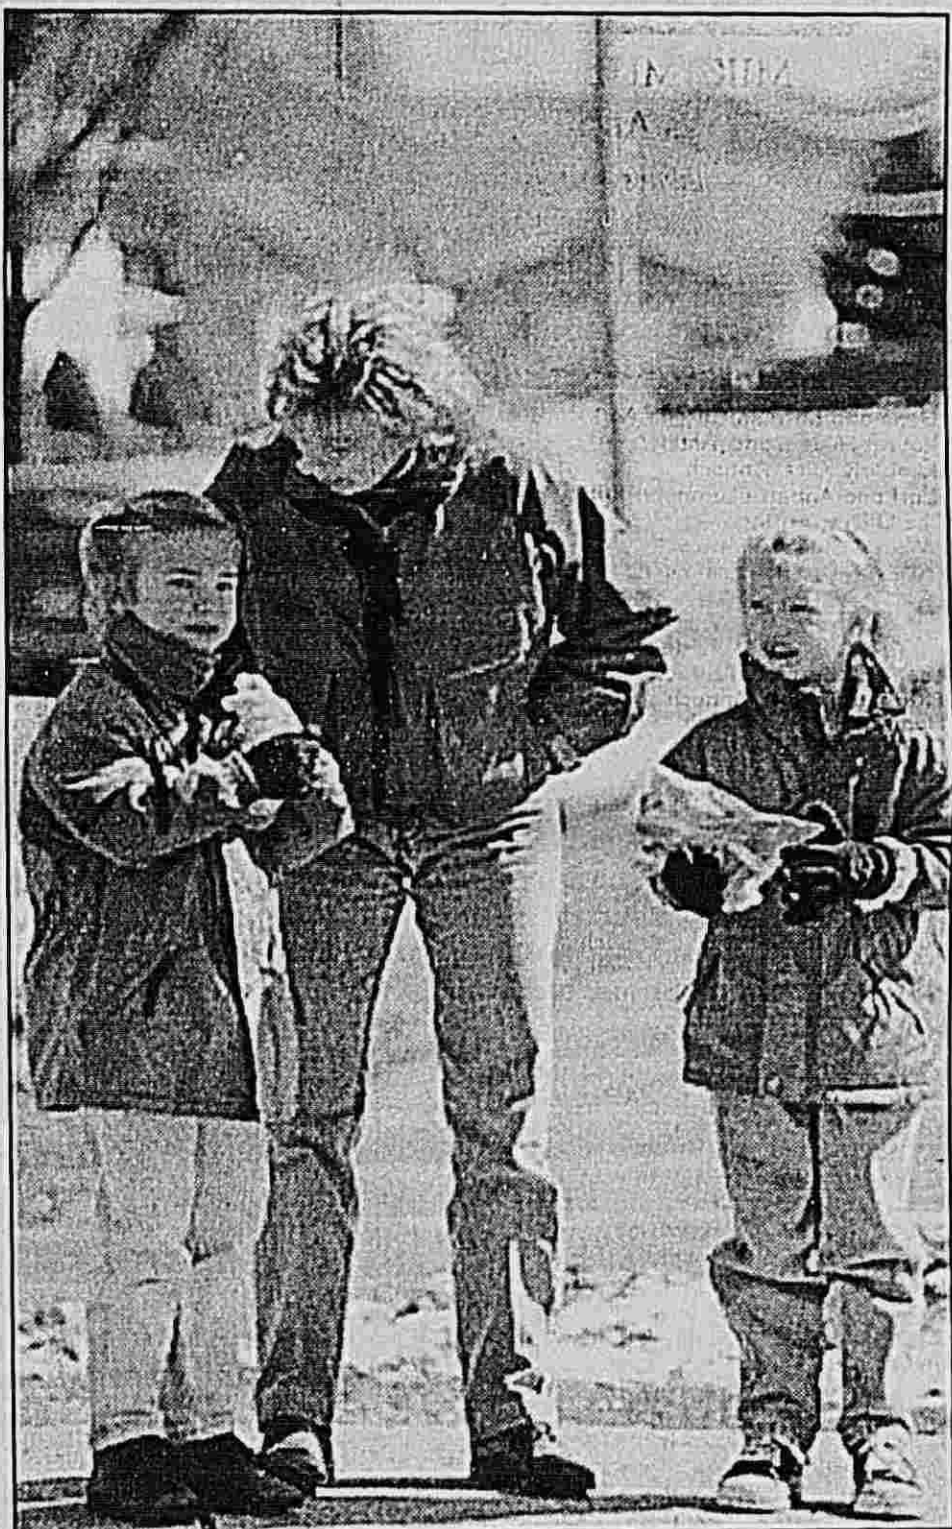

She is involved with many activities in St. Peter Church and was the founder of the Family Association and a religious education teacher.

Smouse said he is willing to work within limited guidelines of township government. He favors being cautious with possible sewers in Antioch Township.

"We need to have a plan for how sewer service could work... Sewers will also bring development," Smouse said.

Smouse was on the Antioch Plan Commission for 12 years. He is a member of Antioch Rotary Club.

Davis was unable to be reached by deadline.

Jonites reports 40 signs stolen

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Township Supervisor candidate Carole Jonites reports many of her signs have mysteriously disappeared.

She estimates at least 40 signs have been taken. She noted at the corner of Deep Lake Road and Route 173 a sign has been taken on at least two occasions.

"They must really be scared of me," Jonites said of the people who are taking the signs.

Jonites has filed police reports, but feels it is unlikely anyone will find the culprit(s) who are removing the campaign signs.

"I'm not worried. Signs don't win elections, people do," she said.

She added every sign she put up in her subdivision was taken away.

Jonites is not accusing anyone regarding the missing signs.

She promises to continue her campaign and not be distracted by some missing signs.

Jonites is running against Township Trustee Tim Osmond for the supervisor slot in the April 1 election.

Incumbent Jim Fields isn't seeking re-election and is retiring.

Lake Villa Library closes during move

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa District Library officials are getting ready for the big move.

The library will be closed from March 31 to April 7 when library officials move everything into the temporary site, the former T.J. Maxx store in Round Lake Beach.

"Everything we have attached to the walls is going," said Barbara Elmore, Library director.

The temporary site will have a lot more room than the current facility. The temporary site has 30,000 square feet of space compared with 10,800 square foot library.

Grass Lake School looks at ways to help students catch up

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Grass Lake School officials are looking into ways they can help students with lower test scores "catch up" with others.

"We want to help those students who fall between the cracks," said Superintendent James Beveridge.

Beveridge noted students who have lower intelligent quotients are caught in classes that may be too difficult for them and left behind.

"After first grade they start to get behind and the gap widens. They never really catch up," Beveridge said.

He said teaching staff and the administration are looking at ways the school can help these students learn without having the pressure of keeping up with other students.

They might be in eighth grade but may only be at a seventh-grade level," Beveridge said.

One of the considerations is a multi-age classroom with these students so they can get the help they need.

He added this problem occurs on virtually every school district. Compounding it is the fact that there is no state or federal money available to combat the problem.

Beveridge added the school hopes to create a program which addresses their needs.

"We want them at a level that meets their needs," he said.

The school is just in the early discussion stages. There is no recommendation or firm consensus to bring to the school board at this time.

Teen Convention focuses on leadership

The program scheduled for the 1997 Illinois 4-H Leadership Convention includes a way to get over the fear of speaking, starting a community service project with a local church youth group or school club, and what it will take to be a leader in the new millennium. The convention hosts more than 200 Illinois youth at the Springfield Renaissance Hotel from June 20-22 in downtown Springfield. Teens looking to advance their leadership and community development skills will find an event planned for and by teens that is targeted just for them.

"Different By Distinction—The Name Says It All" describes the focus of this 1997 Leadership event. The convention program is focused on developing the special leadership skills of teens as they work with other youth and adults in their everyday lives. From learning the practices of successful individuals to working with their local media, teens will find a program that stimulates their own abilities and skills. Workshop sessions will focus on leadership through community action, community service programs, facing the fears of public speaking, teamwork, working with local government officials and campaigns, stress management, and focusing on the future beyond high school. Special opportunities exist for teams of teens from youth organizations or high schools to receive special training as a group.

Adults facilitators for teen delegates are also needed. Interested adults are needed to chaperone delegates and can contact the Lake County 4-H Office, 223-8627, for more information.

Sponsored by the Illinois Cooperative Extension Service 4-H Youth Program, convention registration is open to high school teens, including incoming freshmen, who will be between the ages of 14 and 18 by September 1. Registration materials are available at your local Cooperative Extension Service office, located at 100 S. Hwy. 45, Grayslake.

Registrations are due by May 9. Cost for the weekend event is $125, which includes lodging, accident insurance, four meals, entertainment, and workshop materials. A generous portion of funding for the Illinois 4-H Leadership Convention is provided by the Illinois 4-H Foundation.

Babysitter charged in rape

ELIZABETH EAKEN

Staff Reporter

Every parent worries about child predators and an incident in Grayslake proves there is no such thing as being too cautious when investigating the background of your children's caregivers.

Douglas E. Day 41, a registered sex offender residing at 416 Crossarm, Grayslake, was arrested Saturday, March 22 and charged with predatory criminal sexual assault, criminal sexual assault and two counts of aggravated criminal sexual abuse in connection with a young girl who was left in his care for only a few hours.

The fears of a 4-year-old female's parents were realized when they notified the Grayslake police of suspicions they had over Day, who babysat their daughter last Nov. 3, 1996.

The mother was a former coworker of Day's. He is now unemployed. The girl and her family reside in Addison.

It was some time after Day watched the girl before the parents became suspicious.

"It wasn't immediate. After a period of time the victim made comments and statements to parents that sent up a red flag and they notified us of their suspicions," Grayslake Administrative Sergeant Matt McCutcheon commented.

It wasn't until March 7, 1997 that the parents notified the Grayslake police and discovered

Day is a registered sex offender.

He was convicted in 1989 for the aggravated criminal sexual assault of three juvenile girls in Texas. He is currently on probation for that conviction.

At this time there are five registered sex offenders residing in Grayslake according to Sue Bobka, Grayslake Police Department's director of communications. She said anyone may view the list at the department, which contains the names of all registered offenders residing in Lake County.

Day remains in custody at the Lake County Jail with bond set at $500,000. He is scheduled to appear in court at the Babcox Justice Center, April 7, room 120 at 1:30 p.m.

Police catch stalking ex-husband

ELIZABETH EAKEN

Staff Reporter

A jealous ex-husband who wrote a letter threatening to kill his former wife's boyfriend has been arrested for stalking after being caught peering into the windows of the couple's home.

The incident occurred March

24, at Brittany Square apartments. Patrick D. Meyer, 30, of 407 N. Pershing, Mundelein was charged with one count of stalking.

The boyfriend notified the police of Meyer peering in the windows and when they arrived he was still on the scene.

Meyer admitted sending a letter postmarked March 21, to the boyfriend which stated "bang bang you're dead . . .," according to Grayslake Sergeant Matt McCutcheon.

The couple was divorced in June of 1995.

And they call this 'Good' Friday

Being Catholic has never really been a burden for me. As a child I was never cracked across the knuckles by any ruler-yielding nuns or forced to kneel for hours on any stone hard surface. As an adult I never minded going to Church every Sunday once I got the "stand, sit, kneel" routine down, and I never really had a problem with not being allowed to eat meat on Friday's during Lent.

However, this Ash Wednesday and Good Friday fasting requirement, does cause a slight problem—who am I kidding—that obligation causes major problems. On any other normal routine day I barely even give food a passing glance. I can go days without eating a meal (consuming the remains of a child's lunch does not constitute a meal in my book), but you throw Ash Wednesday and Good Friday in my face and I turn into a drooling floozy—even brussel sprouts look appetizing.

It is not a pretty site one would witness, should they happen to surprise the Pringle resident on either of these two days. I can't venture past the kitchen without grazing through the refrigerator. Every crumb in the toaster, every morsel behind the refrigerator beckons to me. You know that gunk that clings to the blade of your electric can opener? I swear it screams my name every time I pass by. I avoid the kitchen as if the Bubonic Plague was being harvested there.

JINGLE FROM PRINGLE

LYNN

I am of weak will-power, I know one step on that Congolium floor would be the first step down the path to the devil's playground. I am ashamed of the fact that on Ash Wednesday I actually stayed up until midnight (which brought me into the wee hours of Thursday thereby rendering Wednesday over) so I could eat something—do I see some material here for the confessional.

So, now, here it is Good Friday and you can all be assured, late tonight, after Letterman has signed off and you are preparing to turn in for a good night sleep, Jingle here will be sitting on my stepstool in front of the refrigerator, in my bathrobe and fuzzy duck slippers, with fork and knife in hand, waiting for the kitchen clock to register midnight. I can guarantee if you decide to call me about that time with a tidbit, be prepared to leave a message, as the phone will go unanswered-I will be busy foraging for whatever scraps may happen to be sitting within reach of my gobble.

Happy Easter everyone.

Happy, happy

Well the month is almost over and I have yet to furnish you all with a list of March birthday babies—I hope some of you aren't surprised to find a spouse on the following list that you may have forgotten about. Now the light bulb goes on as to why the pillow and blanket have been left on the living room couch the last couple of nights and the bedroom door bolted shut.

Happy Happy: Valerie Aronson, Nathan Boas, Beth Boerman, Tyler Bolton "Will I ever feel better?" Bowen; Jimmy Costello, Amanda Creamer, Michaeline Dituro, Janessa Emerson, Lindsey "my meemee is a line dance nut" Filips; Jim Foerster, Katie Green, Kari Hensel, Carrie Hiller, Sally Hiller, Candice Kasprzak, Aimee Kitto, Jeff LaForge, Dylan Lichter, Tommy Marquart.

Kyle Milovanovic, Keegan Misch, Lynette "Brownie Troop Leader 1035" Moon; Brian Mozal, Bob Olenick, Wayne Olsen Jr., Our very own Stephanie Pringle, Darlene Scharlau, Nick "golf man" Seamon; Jim "I can't believe my wife has me taking dance lessons" Schmehl Sr., "Uncle" Doug Schreiber, Lori Teaters, Michael Trischan, Tara "always with a smile" Tybor, Jon Utinans, David VanArsdall, Sylvia "From the City" Vaughan.

And so goes another "Jingle from Pringle"—don't forget to call 395-6364.

Senate approves final boat safety measure

Illinois waterways will soon be safer for children under a boat safety measure approved by the Senate, according to state Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis who sponsored the legislation.

Senate Bill 495 requires children 13 years old to wear a lifejacket while on a moving boat. Lifejackets would not be required if the child is below deck or in an enclosed cabin space.

"Eighty percent of the deaths in boating accidents across the nation could have been prevented with a simple lifejacket," said Geo-Karis (R-Zion). "Most drownings happen when people fall overboard and most of these people did know how to swim. Adults may have the choice to wear a lifejacket, but children aren't aware of the danger to make that choice."

Current law only requires that lifejackets be on board for each person on the boat. This measure would apply only to those watercraft under 26 feet in length.

This measure is the last of three boat safety measures developed from information gathered at boat safety hearings held in Antioch and Springfield. Senator Geo-Karis requested the hearings after several Chain O' Lakes area residents complained of the unsafe conditions on the lakes.

Two other measures, Senate Bills 110 and 496 passed the Senate. All three measures are under consideration by the House of Representatives.

Grayslake presents barn dance

An old time barn dance will held 7:30 p.m. Saturday, April 12, at the Grayslake Park District's Legion Memorial Building, 42 S. Seymour in downtown Grayslake.

There will be live music provided by the David Adler Cultural Center while the old time dances will be called by veteran caller "Uncle" Roy Reinholds.

Every one with or without square dancing experience is welcome. When needed, the old time dance figures will be walked through before dancing.

Barn dancing differs from modern "mainstream" and "plus" square dancing in that there is always live music at barn dances and the dances are traditional. Costume is not important.

The Legion Building is located just west of the Wisconsin Central Railroad tracks and one-half block south the Center Street, next to the new Grayslake Village Hall. The admission is $4 a person.

For more information about barn dancing, call Reinholds at 223-2081.

ACHS looks at changing needs

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School board members are looking five years ahead as they work to shape a vision of what they feel the school will need to be in the next five years.

The board spent the month hearing from staff and administrators of what is coming and how it will change the way the district educates its students.

"The way we get information has changed," stressed Dennis Hockney, superintendent. "Students will have access to more and more information."

Hockney stressed students will likely take a more active role in retrieving the information they learn. What will change is how teachers help students process what they receive.

Another consideration is making a school within a school. This entails breaking the students up into smaller groups instead of having one school with 1,800 students.

"We want to have a plan when we expand the school," Hockney said.

The school will eventually construct a two-story addition to the current school. That will be paid for from bonds which won't require any additional tax dollars.

The board is planning to move the library to near the front circle area so residents can access it after school hours.

Other changes include moving everything out of the 1915 structure which will eventually be torn down.

This will mean a new home for consumer education, science and administrative offices.

In the coming months the architects will be meeting with staff and administrators to determine the type of facilities they expect will be needed in the future.

Once that is determined, then the specifics of the addition will be presented to the board and the community for their input and suggestions.

Pow Wow to be held at CLC

The College of Lake County will host the third annual Native American pow wow from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. April 19 in the Physical Education Center, Building 7 at CLC's Grayslake Campus.

Tickets are $3 for adults and $1 for children 6 to 12 years old and free for children under age 5 and for senior citizen.

Other activities will include lectures on American Indian culture; demonstrations of dance, arts and crafts; storytelling; and sampling of Native American food.

For information and tickets, call 543-2300.

History meeting coming

The next meeting of the Downtown History Committee will be held April 17, 7 p.m., at the community room, 884 Main Street. The committee is looking for any information on when the buildings along Main, Lake and Victoria Streets were built, who built them, who the occupants have been or other facts.

Line dancing classes coming

Antioch Parks and Recreation and Miss Louise are back with the latest in line dances. This class is gaining a following and is for those with or without line dancing experience. The class is for anyone aged 12 and up and takes place at Grass Lake School on Wednesday nights from 7-8:30 p.m. The next session starts April 8 and ends May 5. Register at the Parks and Recreation office.

—LETTER TO THE EDITOR—

Clear choice

Editor:

The Antioch Township Supervisor race features two very different candidates. Carole Jonites, a local activist who helped organize home owners groups into the United Homeowners Assn. of Unincorporated Antioch Township (UHAUA) is opposing Tim Osmond, a member of the township board for the last eight years, who is also well connected to the old bounty political structure.

Jonites has worked with other Antioch residents and Lake County officials to get a sewer feasibility study completed. Only with such a study can residents begin to gather the facts necessary to see if they are an affordable option.

Osmond has been on the township board for the last eight years and has consistently "gone along" with the status quo of that board. Only four years ago he failed to support local residents fight against the riverboat when 67 percent of the township voters said no to the casino. He not only refused to second a motion made by Claudette Skvarce for a resolution opposing the boat, but later voted in favor of a resolution supporting the boat.

I like Jonites' desire to find the facts and support your choice. Her past work has shown that she will be a full time township supervisor that will work with others and will listen to those she represents.

that the two are connected. Incidents in Grayslake appear not to be related to the Lake Villa Township ones.

Lake Villa Police Chief John Debevic said there have been no incidents in the village but police are having more patrols around schools and warning parents.

Moravec added Lindenhurst police are cooperating with Antioch, Lake Villa and Lake County Sheriff's Department to share any information.

From eyewitness accounts, the suspect is believed to be white with dark hair, between 20-40 years old. The offender has on all occasions stopped his vehicle near the children and asked if they have seen his lost puppy. He then requests that they enter the car to help search for the dog.

Eckenstahler said making a composite sketch has been difficult because no one has seen the suspect long enough to get a picture of what he looks like.

In all cases, the suspect was driving an older model mid-sized white vehicle. The vehicle may have rust spots on the lower side panels and tinted windows.

The first incident occurred at 8:15 a.m., March 6, at the 21000 block of Birch Street in the Crooked Lake subdivision, another one occurred at 4:40 p.m. March 10 at Birch and Oak Avenue and the final reported incident was March 12 at 7:45 a.m. at Highwoods Drive and Oak Avenue in the Petite Highwoods subdivision.

In all three instances, the suspect did not pursue the children when they didn't show interest or ran away.

Police continue to search for the suspect and would appreciate any information that might aid the investigation. People with information are urged to call the Sheriff's Department or their local police department.

Lake County receives final equalization factor

Lake County has been issued a final property assessment equalization factor of 1.0000, according to Ken Zehnder, director of the Illinois Department of Revenue.

The property assessment equalization factor, often called the "multiplier," is the method used to achieve uniform property assessments among counties, as required by law. This equalization is particularly important because some of the state's 6,600 local taxing districts overlap into two or more counties (e.g. school districts, junior college districts, fire protection districts.) If there was no equalization among counties, substantial inequities among taxpayers with comparable properties would result.

Under a law passed in 1975, property in Illinois should be assessed at one-third of its market value. Farm property is assessed differently, with farm homesites and dwellings subject to regular assessing and equalization procedures, but with farmland assessed at one-third of its agriculture economic value. Farm land is not subject to the state equalization factor.

Assessments in Lake County are at 33.25 percent of market value, based on sales of properties in 1993, 1994, and 1995.

The equalization factor was issued after a public hearing on the tentative factor. The tentative factor issued in January 1997 was 1.0000.

The equalization factor is determined annually for each county by comparing the price of individual properties sold over the past three years to the assessed value placed on those properties by the county supervisor of assessments/county assessor.

If this three-year average level of assessment is one-third of the market value, the equalization factor will be one. If the average level of assessment is greater than one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be less than one. And if the average level of assessment is less than one-third of market value, the equalization factor will be greater than one.

The assessed value of an individual property determines what portion of the tax burden a specific taxpayer will assume. That individual's portion of tax responsibility is not changed by the multiplier.

Babysitting skills offered by Camp Fire

Learning how to become a self-reliant babysitter, is what the "I'm Taking Care" course is all about.

Targeted for boys and girls, ages 10 and up, this class teaches participants how to recognize their own strengths and weaknesses, strategies for handling common childhood behaviors, learn "responsive play" and just understand the basics in becoming a good babysitter. Classes also cover emergency situations and basis first aid.

worse situations than ours," Bohmann said.

"Maybe if more people complain, we can get a new building in less than three years," Skvarce said.

Bohmann stressed if complaints are filed they go to the main office in St. Louis.

If they demand a response, the local office tries to make a reply in 60 days.

AARP members filed complaints.

"There have been 20 cards filled out in the last week. It leads me to believe that it is group effort," Bohmann said.

Bohmann added postal officials are working to find a solution.

He added much depends on the amount of business and volume of mail the Antioch Post Office generates.

Winning attitude brewing for Grayslake 9

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Sean Ferrell reached the .500 mark quickly in his first year at the helm at Grayslake High.

The Rams, held to one hit in the season opener, executed the big and small plays in pulling out a 15-10 win over Waukegan on Monday.

Nate Brewer contributed three hits, with two being doubles and pitched as well as the Rams evened their mark at 1-1.

"This is my senior year and we should pull together. We came out swinging the bats today. Most of my hits were on inside fastballs," Brewer said.

"This is my first win and it definitely feels good. All day we made the plays and I'm happy for the kids," Ferrell said.

Joe Kane started and gained the win on a 70-pitch outing. He finished at another one of his familiar spots - as a catcher.

Brewer said the Rams wanted to win for their rookie coach, "because he has done a lot for us," he said. Players pointed to a refurbished field at Grayslake High and new jackets.

Ferrell said pitching and defense were great on a chilly day.

A six-run fourth inning put the Rams over the top. Singles by Jason Olson, Brewer and Mike Garven and a costly Waukegan error helped the cause.

They added a two-out rally in the sixth inning. Brewer and Matt Vasey had back-to-back doubles.

Waukegan scored 4 runs in the first two innings and four in the sixth.

There are some kinks for the Rams to work out before the Northwest Suburban Conference season opens, such as missed signs, but both players and coaches alike felt pleased that win No. 1 in the Ferrell era is in the books.

ACHS softball squad learns during swing through Peoria

State basketball's championship was not the only matter playing in the Peoria last weekend.

Antioch High's softball squad ventured to the area and played five games. The Sequoits came home with five losses in their own version of spring training, but gained much in the way of team togetherness.

The Sequoits lost to Pekin 7-6, 4-3; Peoria Notre Dame 10-0 and 7-6 and Normal Community 3-1.

"We did a lot of good things. We saw some good bats up and down the lineup," ACHS coach Steve Wapon said.

Against Pekin, the Sequoits fought back from 4-0 and 6-2 deficits for a 6-6 tie. Against Notre Dame, the Sequoits tried to rally with three runs in the final inning but it was not enough.

Jamie Silarski, Stephanie Henchen and Kristin Scopel saw time on the mound.

Starting catcher Linda DiSalvo was injured, but Liz Koeck stepped in and did a good job, Wapon said.

Laura Deutsch and Jenny Pieser were the double play combination. Soph Melissa Bock saw time at third base.

The outfield is more up-for-grabs, with Nicole Langley, Sarah Rockow and Casey Koperski leading the way.

"It was a good experience to get to play against some solid teams," Wapon said.

The Sequoits' home opener is March 31 against Rockford Harlem.

CHS pitchers strike first

When it comes to early spring weather, when the opportunity of an above-average day knocks and field conditions are suitable, it behooves baseball coaches to take advantage of an assist from Mother Nature.

Grayslake and Carmel did just that on Friday. Carmel's pitching staff carried the day in a 4-0 win in a game played in 60 degree plus conditions in Mundelein. Twenty-four hours later, temperatures were halved.

Senior Josh Ward struckout 10 of the last 11 Rams batters to complete the work started by Mike McMahon.

"I was hitting the spots on all the pitches, especially the curveball," Ward said.

Carmel, which hosts Stevenson March 23, is hoping for yet another sectional appearance. "We want to do better in the sectional and state and the East Suburban Catholic Conference," Ward said.

Ward worked on his pitching style under the guidance of Steve Sakes of 41 Club, an indoor sports facility in Highland Park, since December.

He sees pitching as a team strength. "Everyone is throwing the ball well," he said.

7th graders finish with wins

Antioch Junior Sequoits seventh grade basketball team concluded a 19-win season with two victories in the Hersey tournament.

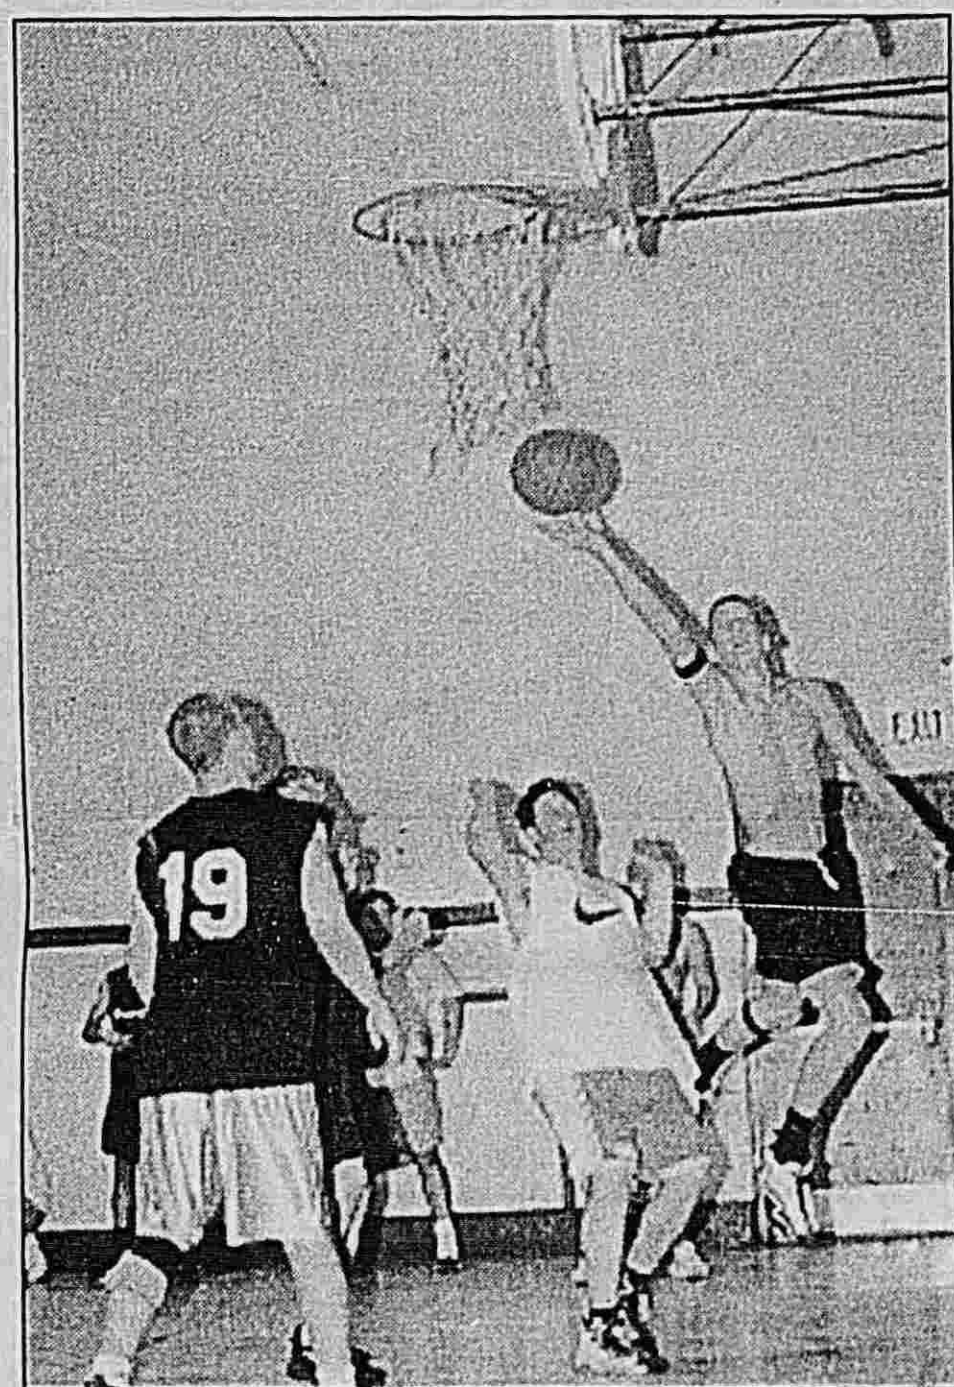

Antioch downed St. Viator 46-45 and Conant 45-34 after losing to Carmel 50-49 for a final 19-7 record.

Against Carmel, Chris Kocinski scored 24 points. He topped 20 points again with a 23-point outing against St. Viator. Ryan Callanan had 9 points against Viator. Kocinski had 10 and Shawn Schulser 9 against Conant.

In rebounding, Chris Malec and Josh Bonner led the way against Carmel; Tom Kenney and Jeff Huebner against St. Viator and Brian Walsh led against Conant.

Kevin Pendergast keyed the defense against Carmel. Joel Finkelberg and Drew Petkus did the same against St. Viator and Andrew Kinney was strong on defense against Conant.

Leitza leads Huskies to final five

St. Cloud State University junior goaltender Brian Leitza, a graduate of Antioch Community High School and resident of Lake Villa, had 55 saves to help the Huskies to a weekend sweep of Northern Michigan in the first round of the WCHA play-offs. Leitza is 9-3-1 over the last 13 games and was ranked fifth in the nation last week in goalie winning percentage (17-6-1/.729). On the season, Leitza has a 19-6-1 record with a 3.09 goals against average and .887 saves percentage.

The Huskies sweep of Northern Michigan earned them a number 3 seed in this weekend's WCHA Final Five Tournament. They faced—number 2 Minnesota, March 14, at the St. Paul Civic Center. St. Cloud enters the tournament with a four-game win streak. The Huskies split with the Gophers in regular season play, each team winning two games.

Hafemann earns top honors at 'Let's Go Racing' show

Butch Hafemann of Campbellsport, Wis. completed a history making week for the 20th Annual "Let's Go Racing" Motorsports Show.

After driving over two and one-half hours one-way from home, Hafemann's unsponsored Eastern Wisconsin Stock Car Assn. (EWSCA) took home the Larry's Mobil Service of Waukegan & Gurnee Best Appearing Overall Championship Award. Hafemann's winged modified received highest point totals from the dozen judges besting a field of 22 participants.

"I can't believe it," said a speechless Hafemann at the awards ceremony held the afternoon of March 23 to conclude the show's seven-day run at Lakehurst Mall in Waukegan. "I've never won anything in my life. This is certainly special to join all of the prestigious previous winners."

"I have to thank my wife, Janet, who is my main and only sponsor," Hafemann said in receiving the honor from Show Promoter Mike Babicz of Gurnee-based Babicz Auto Racing Services, Larry Roebuck of Gurnee, Show Queen Noreen Johnson of Antioch and the Easter Bunny.

Hafemann was the first unsponsored show participant to take top honors, in addition to being the first regular competitor from the Sheboygan County Fairgrounds in Plymouth, Wis. to take home the show's top honor in its two decades of existence.

Two first annual awards were presented with Roebuck receiving the Gordon Sill Award for outstanding show support by an Illinois resident. Dale Erdmann of Lake Geneva Raceway received the Ray Toft Award with the same criteria for a Wisconsin resident.

"This is very special because I began and did most of my racing at Waukegan Speedway where Gordy was the promoter," said Roebuck, who is the only participating show sponsor for all 20 years. "I wish he could've been here, but I certainly will contact him. This is quite an honor."

"This is really a surprise," said

Chad Lamont of Lake Villa took best of the show appearance honors for his junior dragster at the 20th annual "Let's Go Racing" motorsports show at Lakehurst Mall.

Erdmann, who was very instrumental behind the scenes in the show's return to Lakehurst this year and has participated in the show for over 15 years.

Sill, the retired promoter from Waukegan Speedway, resides in Lake Villa. Toft, the retired Wilmet Speedway promoter, lives in Trevor with his wife, Joan.

"Both of these individuals have been very supportive of racing and the racing show over the years," said Babicz, of both the recipients and award honorees. "If it were not for Gordon Sill and Ray Toft, this show would not exist."

Receiving Best Appearing Division honors were: Dave Cerer of Lindenhurst, legend car; Chip Bell of Trevor, sprint car; Bobby Gash of Evanston, ARTGO & Illiana Speedway late model; Mark Greene of Waukegan, mud/sand racer; Todd Daun of Kenosha, sprint car; Ken Fukuyama of Skokie, 1968 MG drag car; Don Durham of Racine, sprint car; Ryan Lamont of Lake Villa, junior dragster; and Todd Lehr of Twin Lakes, sprint car.

Runnerup honors went to: Andy Calin of Antioch, Premier Racing Production's Wilmet Speedway Pace Truck; Denny Norton of McHenry, street stock; Mike Beagel of Zion, Midwest Enduro Series stock car; Steve Sinclair of Lake Villa, J&L Oil/Interstates Racing Assn. Outlaw Sprint Car Series Pace Truck; Joey Fuesting of Beach Park, junior dragster; Doug Peterson of Paddock Lake, street stock; Pete Llamas of Waukegan, junior dragster; Duck Wack of Salem, mini-modified; Antioch dentist Dr. Ken Johnson of Chicago, mini-modified; Darryl Traeber of Waterford and Erich Iverson of Glenview, Midwest Enduro Series cystic fibrosis raffle stock car; Kurt Winker of Kenosha, sprint car; and Wilmet Volunteer fireman Warren Meyer, International Motor Contest Assn. modified.

"This was the smoothest running show ever," said Babicz, who announced plans to have the 21st annual event sometime in March, 1998, at Lakehurst. "The cooperation of the merchants, mall staff, show participants and officials was excellent."

The Palombi School of Lake Villa Brass Trio of Matt Dannels, J.D. Mede and Jeff Thompson, under the direction of Music Director Matt Kastor, performed the National Anthem at the awards ceremony.

Roger Mueller of Sheboygan, radio show host and voice of Sheboygan County Fairgrounds Speedway in Plymouth, along with Erdmann served as co-emcees.

Show sponsors included J&L Oil of Vernon Hills, Larry's Mobil Service, Premier Racing Productions Wilmet Speedway, Kevin Dawson's Lake Geneva Raceway, Lake Shore Harley-Davidson of Waukegan, Lake County 4-Wheel Drive and Winker Engineering.

Associate sponsors were Montgomery Ward of Lakehurst, Balmes Flower Shops of Gurnee and North Chicago, Tiemey Signs of Lake Villa, Napierala's Racing Photos, Greenleaf Grill of Park City, North Chicago VFW Post 7981, Go-Line Sportswear of Milwaukee, Brogan's Awards of Gurnee, Grams & Grams Racing Collectibles of Kenosha and Hansmann Printing of Kenosha.

Dr. Ken Johnson, an Antioch dentist, took top appearance honors in the mini-modified division at the 20th annual motorsports show at Lakehurst Mall.

Sterling Finish to display Dale Earnhardt's car

MICHAEL H. BABICZ
Correspondent

A general public open house highlighted by the opportunity to view the Richard Childress Racing NASCAR Winston Cup Monte Carlo of 7-time Champion Dale Earnhardt and the Busch Grand National car of Mark

Earnhardt

Green is planned for Thursday, April 17 from 2 to 6 p.m., at Sterling Finish 34740 N. Hwy. 45, in Lake Villa.

In addition to the unique free opportunity of viewing these motorsports machines based out of the top race team in the country's Kannapolis, N.C. shop, the public will have the chance to tour the national award winning Sterling Finish shops.

The U-shaped assembly line concept pioneered by Henry Ford in his first automotive manufacturing plant in Michigan and perfected by European manufacturers has been adapted to a state of the art collision repair facility by Gordon and Greg Bockwinkel.

Sterling Finish was recently awarded the 1996 North American Collision Repair Business of the Year Award for the large single-location category by the Business Development Group.

In addition to seeing the inside workings of the 24-hour 72,000 square-foot two-story complex, the public will be able to see how the same European polyurethane paint used in the shop aids in the aerodynamic sleekness of the two racing machines.

Dale Earnhardt's championship Monte Carlo will be on display at Sterling Auto Finish during a public open house of the state-of-the-art collision repair facility April 17 from 2 to 6 p.m.. The shop is located at 34740 N. Hwy. 45 in Lake Villa.

In addition to its regular staff of 60 employees, the $6 million company has a working partnership with the College of Lake County in Grayslake for an apprenticeship program.

Management Software, a division of Sterling Finish, has been added with the addition of Sean Wilson as a partner to code and implement a software package for the collision repair shop industry.

Although currently a one location operation, Sterling

Finish is exploring possible expansion to other locations within the midwest.

For additional information on the Sterling Finish open house and services available contact Steve Trapp at 847-223-8522.

Wilmot opens season April 26

The Official 1997 racing schedule for the Wilmot Speedway was released by Premier Racing Productions (PRP). The Wisconsin home of sprint car racing season opener will be on April 26 with racing scheduled for four Sunday's, one Friday, one Thursday and every Saturday through Sept. 13. Included in the 1997 schedule are Sprint cars, IMCA Modifieds, Mini-Sprints, Mini-Mods and six appearances by the MRA Modifieds.

Highlights of the years events at the speedway include the Wilmot Open Sprints on Saturday, Aug. 16. For the second year in a row the Open Sprint show will be run during the County fair with the IMCA Modifieds also on the program this year. The IRA returns to the speedway in 1997 and will compete against the Wilmot Star Trac Sprints for the King of Wisconsin title. The two show King Series will be on Saturday, June 21 and Thursday, Aug. 7. Memorial Day and Independence Day week-ends will feature two days of racing action. The schedule reflects a continuation of the PRP commitment to excellence by bringing the best racing in the Midwest to the speedway every week.

Sprint car racing is the number one class in America and the Wilmot Speedway, with a 37 car average per night, was the number one track in America in 1996 based on average Sprint car count per night. In a change from previous years, the Saturday night program will feature three car classes. This change will mean families can come out to the track, see great entertainment, mingle with the race car drivers after the races and still get home at a reasonable hour. The great thing about auto racing is the closeness between the drivers and the fans. Unlike other sports, race car drivers love to sign autographs and talk with the people and the change to three classes a night will give the fans the time to get know their favorites and maybe find new ones.

The Wilmot Speedway is now on the world wide web, at www.racingonline.com/wilmot. On line information 24 hours has further details on the goings on at the track; call 838-RACE.

Burns help bring new life to preserves

Prescribed fires to restore prairies, woodlands and wetlands at several Lake County Forest Preserves are underway this spring and will continue through mid-May, weather permitting. Last fall, over 460 natural acres received the benefit of fire as a result of the Forest Preserve prescribed burn program.

"The controlled fires safely remove dead leaves, stems and twigs from the ground and expose the soil and seeds to the sun's life-giving rays," said Jim Anderson, Lake County Forest Preserve Natural Resource Manager. "Daily wind, wetness and other weather conditions help us determine which of the designated Preserves we select for the spring burns."

Lake County Forest Preserve locations under consideration for prescribed burns this spring include some of the more frequented Forest Preserves like Lakewood near Wauconda, Grant Woods near Fox Lake, Greenbelt near Waukegan and North Chicago, Lyons Woods near Beach Park and Waukegan, Old School near Libertyville, McDonalds Woods near Lindenhurst, Van Patten Woods near Wadsworth, Ryerson Woods near Deerfield, Cuba Marsh near Barrington, Wright Woods near Lincolnshire, and Wadsworth Savanna near Wadsworth. Several undeveloped Forest Preserves are also under consideration.

The prescribed burns protect and encourage native plant species to reproduce, and mimic the natural wildfires that occurred before Lake County was settled. The burns are times for completion in the spring before birds and insects begin their nesting or mating seasons, and before many small animals emerge from their underground homes. Due to the speed of the flames and the insulating properties of the soil, wildlife populations are adapted to avoid the fires and are safe underground or in the trees.

Forest Preserve staff and volunteers complete special training sessions before assisting with the burns to ensure that proper safety measures are taken to protect people, plants and animals in the preserves and surrounding properties.

For additional information and a FREE brochure on the Forest Preserve prescribed burn program, call the Lake County Forest Preserve Planning, Conservation and Development office at 680-6301.

YMCA offers free family day

Each spring, the Lake County Family YMCA calls attention to the importance of children's safe, healthy development through YMCA Healthy Kids Day, a special day of learning and fun. This year, the day is really a family affair.

The Lake County Family YMCA will host this free event on Saturday, April 12 from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Some of the special attractions include a family swim with the "Big Dog" pool inflatable, preschool activities, health and fitness presentations, carnival games, a martial arts demonstration, Studio One Dance Troop performance, Billy Blagg the magician and much more. An annual favorite, the Lake County Sheriff Department Canine Team is planning to be part of the day once again.

All activities are free and open to the public but the YMCA is asking that children bring canned food items for donation to a local food pantry.

This is a great opportunity to spend time with your family and friends at the YMCA at 2000 Western Ave., in Waukegan. Come dressed for participation. Bring a suit and towel for the family swim. For more information, call the YMCA at 360-YMCA.

Conserving Nature

Volunteers preserve more than 120 acres from development, seek more

The 32-acre Pohickory Conservancy is a haven for wildlife and plant life. The land, located in Newport Township, is held in trust by the Land Conservancy of Lake County.— Photo by Linda Chapman

Someday the farmland and large stands of trees seen in the swiftly vanishing countryside of Lake County may be remote memories, but there is a special group of volunteers in Lake County trying to preserve open land for wildlife and future generations.

The Land Conservancy of Lake County (LCLC) is a non-profit land trust with the purpose of preserving small orphan parcels of land. It was formed in 1989 and actively manages and promotes the protection of natural areas.

Its work allows land parcels that may be too small for development to be preserved as open space. Bill Rockar, vice president of the conservancy, said its motives are similar to larger organizations such as the Audubon Society and the forest preserve district, but it takes on smaller plots of land which the larger groups often reject. The group is actually a member of the Land Trust Alliance, a national organization of local and regional land trusts which is headquartered in Washington D.C.

"We are a land trust. We're different from the forest preserve because we try to preserve land as a nature conservancy, public access is denied," Rockar explained. "...The land is the biggest benefit for the preservation. You know in this county in the next 10 years there won't be space for preserving..."

Currently the land conservancy oversees Pohickory which includes 32 acres in Newport Township; Walnut Creek which encompasses 27 acres of wetland, prairie and woodland in Hawthorn Woods; Dover Pond which includes 6 acres of wetland in Elia Township and MAR-Glen Oaks which includes 1.67 acres in Beach Park. Two recently acquired sites near the Waukegan Regional Airport encompass a total of 25 acres and include a 20 acre wetland site on the west side of the Waukegan Airport and a 5 acre marsh site to the south west where Green Bay and Kenosha roads split.

Rockar said there are additional lots they would like to acquire near the airport.

"The land is all flooded and nobody can do anything with the lots," he explained.

The other 5-acre parcel near the airport was donated by the owner to relieve themselves of paying taxes on land which couldn't be built upon after it was rezoned by Beach Park from agriculture to residential property, increasing the taxes. Rockar suspects there are others in the area who may be interested in donating land for the same reason.

According to the conservancy an estimated 90,000 acres of land which is encompassed in parcels too small for development exist in the county. It is the LCLC's goal to preserve these areas. Negotiations are ongoing to acquire additional land around the county.

The Pritzker family property being developed near Long Lake could possibly be LCLC's next site. According to Rockar the developer was negotiating with the forest preserve, but also contacted him because the forest preserve was asking for some of the buildable land, but would have to buy it. The LCLC however would take the un-buildable land as a donation.

• Elizabeth Eaken •
Staff Reporter

One area the group lost was land at the Prairie Crossing development in Grayslake. Rockar said initially the Ranney family which developed the subdivision considered donating the land to them, but changed their minds because if down the road they wanted to develop it as a golf course or something else, it wouldn't be possible.

The Yntema family donated their 32 acre "Pohickory" homestead to the LCLC because they expressly wished for it to remain open space. The property is currently the conservancy's largest parcel. It is located along Dilley's Road just south of Kelly Road near Wadsworth.

The Pohickory conservancy is a haven for wildlife and plant life. It has no public access. This is the usual setup for a land conservancy parcel; to keep the land open for wildlife.

One of the interesting facts about Pohickory is it contains many rare apple trees collected by Leonard Yntema. Rockar said the site was neglected for several years and unwanted plants such as buckthorn have invaded it. The apple trees are so rare some don't exist anywhere in the world.

"The land was planted with rare apple trees he collected from all over the world and the truth is some are dying and need a lot of attention," explained Rockar.

County Board member Al Westerman (R-Gurnee), who operates an apple orchard has taken cuttings of the rare trees to try and save as many as possible, Rockar explained.

Leonard Yntema wasn't living when his wife and children donated the land, but Rockar said they went through every detail to make sure the conservancy would preserve the land as open space forever. If the conservancy would ever dissolve, an easement on the property would convey the land to the Natural Land Institute of Rockford.

This type of process makes it difficult for the land conservancy to swiftly acquire parcels, Rockar noted. He said the organization often comes across people who say they would like to donate land, but then they don't hear from them for several years.

"We have a policy we don't pursue people, we leave it up to them and don't pressure them," Rockar said of land acquisition.

The Land Trust Alliance of which the LCLC is a part of has a mission to strengthen the land trust movement through information, education, public policy and creating public awareness.

"A lot of people call me and say I have 5 acres or 1 acre and I understand you take land and ask if we'd take it, but they often forget about it," Rockar emphasized. "It was the same with the Yntema's. They were searching for someone to take it..."

The MAR-Glen Oaks parcel in Beach Park was donated in 1996 by six members of the Reinier family as part of their parent's estate. The land is wooded and contains a ravine which is a tributary to Bull Creek. It is undergoing a transition to a natural site being cleaned-up and restored. The conservancy plans to undertake a floristic quality study on the property.

This study involves inventorying all plant species and wildlife habitats to as the quality of the lands natural resources. This information is then used to implement a management plan for the site.

Another large part of LCLC work includes reaching out to the young people of the county. Rockar travels to the high schools where he is involved with the environmental clubs. The kids are presented with honorary membership certificates and sometimes come out to help with the workdays and other projects at the various parcels of land. It is Rockar's wish to establish a scholarship fund for the kids.

Real women don't give wedgies

After spending the weekend with my husband and a group of his college fraternity brothers and their wives, I was struck by a thought. Mind you, it was only one thought, because after a wild weekend with these party hardy folks, all of whom graduated "Michelob cum laude," I have far fewer brain cells remaining. So here it is, my one thought—and let's hope a few more brain cells kick in before the end of the page—real women don't give wedgies.

Now don't make me explain in detail what a wedgie is, because this is a family newspaper. I will, however, give you a small visual hint: think "thong" (no lisp intended).

As I was saying, real women don't give wedgies—or pink bellies, Indian burns, knuckle rubs on the head, or any one of hundreds of assorted tortures and humiliations that boys like to dish out to each other as a sign of "friendship" or "brotherhood." Seriously, as far as I can remember, not one of my girlfriends ever yanked my underwear up to my shoulder blades, slapped me on the back and chuckled, "There ya go, buddy!"

No, this seems to be purely male behavior. And I wish I could think of a rational explanation as to why they enjoy this sort of thing, but I can't. (I do have a theory, though—maybe this male torture behavior is caused by hormones. Why not? Whenever women behave strangely, men blame it on our hormones).

Anyway, what got me thinking about this whole subject in the first place was all the stories my husband and his buddies like to tell about their fraternity days. What's

really amazing about these stories is that these men are still speaking to each other. While women's friendships are based on the ability to converse easily and to share emotions, men seem to grow close in direct proportion to the amount of humiliation/discomfort they were able to either inflict or survive:

"Remember that time when you were a pledge and we hid you inside the tackling dummy for the football team right before practice?"

"How could I forget? That's why I love you guys!"

"And how about that time we talked you into drinking an entire fifth of whiskey?"

"You mean the time I fell down the stairs?"

"Yeah, that one."

"Oh, man, I almost forgot about that. We sure had some good times, didn't we?"

Somehow, I just can't imagine this sort of activity going on in a sorority house. More likely the sorority pledges would simply be forced to wait two weeks before borrowing any of the other girls' clothes.

And I think I can speak for most women when I say that when it comes to equality, we have no desire to emulate this particular portion of the male personality. They can keep it.

As women, we abhor physical violence.

Besides, any woman worth her salt knows that mental torture has far greater power. The difference is, we would never think to use this weapon on our friends. It wouldn't be right.

Which is why we save it for our husbands.

Editor's note: Donna Abear can also be heard as a guest humorist on WXL 102.3 FM's morning show at 7:10 a.m. on alternate Mondays.

—Movie Pick— 'Return' fitting trilogy finale

"Return of the Jedi," the last of George Lucas' bigger and better "Star Wars" Trilogy, in many ways is the most fun of the upgraded three special effects sci-fi pioneers from the 1970s-1980s.

OK, OK, the centerpiece of this futuristic masterpiece, "The Empire Strikes Back," has long been deemed the best of the three, and is even more expansive with the 1997 touch.

Maybe we enjoyed "Jedi" because it's sort of a curtain call for all three, with all the memorable and less endearing "Star Wars" characters jumping back into the spotlight, employing another trick or two, and bowing in revue.

On the other hand, although one of the most played and best scenes of the trilogy, the Luke Skywalker-Darth Vader, father and son confrontation, is in this one, Mark Hamill remains the same shallow hero we remembered.

Since "Jedi" came six years after the trilogy's opener, "Star Wars," Carrie Fisher's Princess Leia is a sexier foil for Harrison Ford's Han Solo, who by this time looks and acts like the "devil may care" hunk with the crooked smile who has been in the top five list of action stars for many years. Yet even Lucas' touch-ups fail to discover any real chemistry between these two.

Jabba the Hut, the Emperor,

C-3PO, R2-D2, Darth Vader, Yoda and the rest return for one more go-around.

"Jedi," rated "PG," gets four out of five stars. —by GLORIA DAVIS

Lake County Home Show returns

Think spring, think decorating, think remodeling. Think Lake County Home Show! On April 5 and 6 the most exciting home show in the northern suburbs is returning to the Lake County Fairgrounds for its third year. This year's show will feature over 100 exhibits of home improvement products and services plus demonstrations, seminars and guest experts. Pat Simpson, host of the nationally televised Backyard American on TNN will be the guest celebrity on both days. Other show highlights include "Da Bulls" mascot, Benny the Bull. Show hours both Saturday and Sunday are from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Adult admission is $4 to $2 with "Buy 1 Get 1 Free" discount coupons or ads. Under 21 are admitted free. Pow-wow celebration set

The Potawatomi Trails Pow-wow Committee of Zion, is a non-profit group of Native American and local people, living in northeastern Illinois and southeastern Wisconsin, who have come together to study the Native American Heritage of this area. The spring friendship pow-wow will be held in the Ice Arena at the Zion Park Dist., Saturday and Sunday, April 5 and 6. Gates will be open to the public both days at 10 a.m. Saturday hours will be from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Grand entry of dancers will be at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. with a dinner break from 5 to 7 p.m. Trader booths stay open during the break. Sunday hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. with Grand Entry at 1 p.m. Daily general admission is $5, children 6 to 12, $1. Elders over 65 and children under 5 are free. For further information, call Bill Brown at 746-9086.

Mass of Remembrance to be held April 8

A Mass of Remembrance for parents and family members of children who have died recently or long ago through miscarriage, premature birth, stillbirth, abortion, SIDS, adoption at birth, or other circumstances will be held at St. Joseph's Church, 121 E. Maple Ave., Libertyville on Tuesday, April 8 at 7:30 p.m. For additional information, call St. Joseph's Bereavement Ministry at 362-2073.

Justice to visit Barrington

Eighty-one year old Bill Justice, who is celebrating his 60th year with the Walt Disney Co., is visiting with Stay Tooned Animation Gallery on Saturday, April 5 from 1 to 4 p.m. to meet with fans, answer questions, and sign artworks from his incredible body of work that ranges from 19 feature films including Snow White, Fantasia, Bambi, etc. For further details, call 382-CELS.

Gardening season starts soon

"March comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb." Though that is not always the case.

April is right around the corner. The earth will be thawed soon and we can begin our spring gardening tasks.

Continue to sow summer perennials and vegetables indoors. If seedlings are getting too spindly, provide plenty of artificial light. When it's gloomy, I leave mine under the lights 12 hours or so. When seedlings have many sets of true leaves, lightly fertilize them.

Outdoors, when the lawn has thoroughly dried (dry enough to walk on), you can begin to dethatch. I use a special dethatching rake. This can be a tedious task; do not try to accomplish it in one day. However, it must be done; the dead turf needs to be removed so the emerging lawn can breathe. It also helps to prevent diseases and fungus in the lawn. You can fertilize the lawn and use a preemergent herbicide, if you like, to control weeds.

Continue to prune dead wood on trees and shrubs. Prune spring bloomers after they have bloomed.

As weather warms, remove winter protection from roses. Prune back dead wood. Begin fertilizing for bloom as soon as plants become leafy. Plant root stock as soon as soil can be worked.

Now is a good time to prepare vegetable plants. Turn the soil as soon as it can be worked and incorporate compost and plenty of organic matter. Remember organic matter improves plant growth by replacing minerals and nutrients and improves soil structure.

At the end of the month begin to transplant or direct seed crops such as broccoli, cauliflower and other cold crops. Also cool weather herbs such as cilantro can be direct seeded now.

by Lydia Huff

It's also time to remove mulches from spring perennial beds. Divide crowded fall and summer blooming perennials. Spring blooming perennials should be divided in the fall. Fertilize established perennials as soon as they show signs of new growth.

Flight For Life celebrates 10th anniversary

This year marks the 10th anniversary of the Flight For Life (FFL)—Northern Illinois helicopter program at the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry. Since its inception in 1987, the Northern Illinois helicopter service has flown nearly 3,000 patient flights. People whose lives have been touched by FFL are invited to help celebrate 10 years of service at a patient/crew reunion. Former patients will have the opportunity to meet the flight teams who cared for them during transport. The reunion will be held on June 21 at the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry. Persons transported by Flight

For Life and that would like to be a part of this reunion should send a post card to Flight For Life, Attn: 10

Year Patient Reunion, 1000 North 92nd St., Suite 1302, Milwaukee, Wis. 53226, or call (414)778-4573.

Internationally known physiologist to give Volwiler lecture at Lake Forest College

Dr. Martin Morad, an internationally known physiologist and professor of pharmacology and medicine at Georgetown Univ. School of Medicine, will give the 13th annual Volwiler Distinguished Science Lecture on Thursday, April 3.

The public is invited to the free program at 8 p.m. in the Lily Reid Holt Memorial Chapel

(College and Sheridan Roads). Dr. Morad will discuss, "The mysterious heart: Quest for scientific solution."

After receiving his BA degree from Lake Forest College ('59), Dr. Morad went on to earn his PhD in physiology from State Univ. of New York. He later served for more than 20 years as a professor of physiology and medicine at the Univ. of Pennsylvania.

Dr. Morad's numerous accomplishments include publishing a plethora of papers in "Science and Nature" and receiving over $10 million in grants from the NIH and AHA. Counted among his many awards are the Alexander Von Humboldt Prize and the Tannabe Award for Outstanding Research from the International Society for Heart Research.

Dr. Morad currently serves as president of the Cardiac Muscle National Society.

The Distinguished Science Lecture series was established through a gift to Lake Forest College from the late Ernest H. Volwiler, a life trustee of the college and former Abbot Laboratories chairman.

A professorship in natural sciences and mathematics was also established at the college through Volwiler's generosity. That post is held by Edward W. Packel, professor of mathematics.

For further information on the lecture, call Lake Forest College at 735-6010.

Can tantrums now, destroy a child's future?

Dear Dr. Singer,

I am a regular reader of your column and as such, I see that a lot of what you write about is preventing bad behavior in kids. Specifically, it seems that you want to try and help parents and kids avoid future problems from pattern behavior started now. I think that my story will help a lot of parents to understand just how dangerous it is to not pay attention to problem behavior from the beginning.

I didn't know this was happening as it happened and now it is completely out of control. You keep saying to yourself, "this is just a stage and it will get better." I want to tell your readers that it most certainly isn't a stage and you have to respond now, even if it's only tantrums and your child is only 3. At any rate, here is my story...

My daughter is 28 years old now and living with me. I'll tell you about now, first and then fill in the signs that were there to be seen when she was little, but I didn't see them. This 28-year-old child is in her ninth year of junior college, of course, financed by me. She has had multiple DUI's and been bailed out by me. She lives with me because each time I try to get her out of my house, she kicks holes in the walls and breaks expensive things in the house. Each time I try to cut off the money, she cries that she will never make it on her own and I cannot seem to not respond to this stuff. She has had at least 25 one-week-long jobs. You see, each time her bosses try to tell her to do something, she responds to them like she responds to me. She expects them to back down from her tantrums like I have for 28 years. You see, her problem is that they don't do that—they fire her!

Each and every time, she blames them and cannot see her own behavior. When she was little, she would throw tantrums and I would get scared and not know what to do. I tried to put her in her room, but this never seemed to completely solve the problem. She would tell me, on a regular basis, that she would do what she wants! I wanted this child to love me, so I didn't get in the way. I also wanted her to know I loved her so I didn't get in the way. She would use tears like an Oscar-winning actress, and I would fold instantly. She would get punishments from me on days I felt particularly strong, and she would then negotiate her way out of them. She is still doing all of this behavior, now with others!

This 28 year old child will probably never make it on her own and I fear I am to blame since I didn't stop this exact type of behavior when she was 2 or 8 or 10 or 13 or 17 when I had the chance. I want you other didn't leave a return address on your envelope, so I will say here that I would like for you to call parents to wake up and smell the coffee. Don't feel that your child is any different than this child. If there are tantrums now, don't be afraid of them. Don't negotiate. Dr. Singer is right. Your home is training for their future and what they know they can get away with there, they will try with others in the world. Do something about it now! Be much more afraid of not doing something now! Remember that I didn't get in the way for lots of reasons. If you love your child...get in the way! Even if your child has other problems, don't feel sorry for the child because no one else in the world will! That child still needs to be able to make it! I'm really hoping that this helps someone else. If it helps just one family to get their tantruming child out of these habits now, than I feel that I can have some peace! Signed...Feeling like a failed parent!

Dear Feeling,

First of all, thank you for your concern for my other readers and I'm sure that this letter will help a great many parents to recognize some things in their own kids now and get it stopped now. I'm very concerned about you. I wanted to write or talk to you directly and offer you some suggestions on how to get this out-of-control situation back in control. There is a way to do it. You me so we can set up some time to get this under control for you.

Since this is such an intense situation, I hesitate to give specific advice in this column. This is a situation that requires therapy and I feel that a few comments in a column would not be appropriate, so I really hope you'll call and set up some time so I can help you! I also want you to stop beating yourself up for this! All parents do the best they can! You did too. You realize your mistakes and are sharing that realization with others which is a wonderful and generous thing to do!

The other thing here is that we all go through our things as children and then we become adults and have to make choices in life. I have a very strong belief in the fact that as adults, we are fully capable of knowing what is the right thing and the wrong thing to do. Many of us blame our parents for what they did or didn't do, and to those people I usually say, "let go of the excuses and get yourself the help you need to grow up, take responsibility and be a responsible person." I really tend to get very impatient with those of us adults who believe that none of their behavior is within their control because of what, "mommy and daddy did." I'm not saying that we shouldn't be sensitive to what a person has gone through, but it doesn't give them free license to just do anything they want as an adult regardless of who it hurts! It is up to them to take care of it!

I also believe that these patterns begin as early as age 3 and younger. I have seen countless stories like this and this is the reason behind the development of my behavior program. This program helps parents break these types of destructive patterns in their kids within a couple weeks. It helps them to use real-world types of skills to help their kids be on track now and forever! It helps kids to transition from home to the world in a much smoother way.

It is difficult to really illustrate it fully here, but I believe that this program might be right for you now, even though your child is 28. This is a program for parents only and has worked for many, many families who have used it with me. You should know that it is also very short-term and affordable. I hope you'll call me to take care of this and I also hope you'll stop beating yourself up so badly! One last hope... parents out there...listen to her very carefully. These things can become patterns without your knowledge of it! This is very serious and can become out of control in the blink of any eye. My advice to people is to take this on as a preventive and not an "after-the-fact." Good luck to all of you and let's all root for and thank this mom who is feeling very badly, for her wishes for the rest of us!

Mini Cruise Maxi Fun

by JIM WARNKEN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

I just returned from a three day cruise aboard one of Carnival Cruise Lines' "Mega" ships called the Fantasy.

In the past, most three day cruise ships were older, rehabbed trans-atlantic vessels. Not the case here!

As soon as I boarded the Fantasy on Friday, I found myself in the five story high "Grand Spectrum" lobby, complete with glass elevators whisking passengers to the upper decks. I was surrounded by the glitter of miles of neon lights. I knew immediately this was no relic from the '50's. In fact, it was hard to believe I was on board a ship.

The Fantasy's extensive open deck space is also a welcome change over the closed-in trans-atlantic ships which were designed for colder weather and lack space for sun bathing.

Saturday morning we docked at Nassau. If you're just interested in shopping and a little sight-seeing, skip the city tour shore excursions, since all the shopping you can handle and most tourist attractions are within walking distance of the port.

Other shore excursions include a private island with a great beach, as well as snorkeling trips, and SCUBA diving.

Carnival also offers an evening shore excursion to the fabulous Crystal Palace Hotel and Casino. I instead, headed for a small night club I found years ago called "Peanut Taylor's Drumbeat Club". Peanut's is short walk from the ship and has an excellent "Island Show".

Sunday was our "Day at Sea". Many of my shipmates enjoyed trapshooting, ice carving, games, contests, talent shows, and lots more. Since I was up rather late checking out the Fantasy's many discos and lounges, I found a lounge-chair on the uppermost deck at the bow (front) of the ship just forward of the jogging track. Here I was away from the sounds of the Reggae Bands and the "Fun Crowd" around the pools (there's three). I basted myself in sunblock 30, ordered an ice cold drink from one of the wandering bar boys, and just laid back watching the islands go by.

All too soon we were back in port Monday morning.

'Paradigm Lost' provides classy, sassy entertainment

In keeping with its title, "Paradigm Lost," Second City's 82nd revue constantly shifts from one outrageous scene to the next.

Despite the kaleidoscopic movement, this high-energy production, directed by Mick Napier, preserves a consistently witty thread through most of the proceedings.

That's due, of course, to the well-honed talents of its players, veterans Scott Adsit, Rachel Dratch, Jenna Jolovitz, Kevin Dorff and Jim Zulevic, plus main-stage newcomer Tina Fey.

"Paradigm Lost" pokes fun at corporate America as it reinvents itself (a copier supply company's new owners bring the cryptic message to its puzzled employees that the firm is "going country").

One skit lampoons public radio with a bizarre cultural look at the chair, while another tears apart the education system (surprisingly, no cracks about Ebonics).

There's a telling re-creation of a young man's experience of taking his first behind-the-wheel driver's test. He passes with flying colors only after proving he can, while driving, consume a burger and fries, find a tape on the floor in the back seat, pass a bus on the right and jump a yellow light—all with the seat belt unfastened, of course.

A particularly irreverent skit finds a priest having a devil of a time finding a suitable record to play at the funeral of one of the parish's nuns.

Along the way a few familiar targets take a dusting, such as the two gay women looking to rent an apartment of their dreams and a recalcitrant teenage girl and her mother trying to see eye to eye at the local mall.

All in all, "Paradigm Lost," now settling in for an open run, is a classy, sassy little show. For ticket information call, (312)337-3992.

The theater is located at 1616 N. Wells in Chicago.—by TOM WITOM

—Cooking by the Book— Southern cookery via the back roads of Louisiana

Southern cooking is hot, and Emeril Lagasse shares some of the secrets why in "Louisiana Real and Rustic" (William Morrow and Co., $25). A well-known chef, cookbook writer and television food personality, Lagasse takes readers to the bayous with an instructive volume of recipes ranging from crawfish patties and fried okra salad to oyster stew and Creole cream cheese.

Especially tasty is the following:

Fricassee of pork and turnips
3/4 lb. boneless pork loin, cut into 1-inch cubes

1 Tbl. Rustic Rib (recipe follows)

2 Tbl. vegetable oil

1/2 cup chopped onions

1/4 cup chopped bell peppers

1/4 cup chopped celery

1 tsp. salt

1/4 tsp. cayenne

2 Tbls. flour

1 lb. turnips, peeled and cubed (about two cups)

2 cups chicken broth

Toss the pork with the rub in a bowl and refrigerate for at least one hour.

Heat the oil in a large skillet over medium-high heat. Add the pork and brown evenly. Season the onions, bell peppers and celery with the salt and cayenne. When the pork is brown, remove from the skillet with a slotted spoon. Set aside.

Add the flour to the oil in the skillet. Stirring constantly for 4 to 5 minutes, make a medium brown roux, the color of peanut butter. Add the onions, bell peppers and celery and cook for 2 to 3 minutes, or until slightly wilted. Return the pork to the skillet and cook, stirring constantly, for 3 to 4 minutes. Add the turnips and broth. Stir to mix well. Bring to a boil, reduce heat to medium low and cook, stirring occasionally, for 40 to 45 minutes. Serve immediately with rice.

Rustic rub

8 Tbl. paprika
3 Tbl. cayenne

5 Tbl. freshly ground black pepper

6 Tbl. garlic powder

3 Tbl. onion powder

6 Tbl. salt

2 1/2 Tbl. dried oregano

2 1/2 Tbl. dried thyme

(For a smaller quantity, divide recipe in half)

Combine all the ingredients in a mixing bowl. Blend well. Can be stored in an airtight container for up to three months.—by TOM WITOM

HOROSCOPE

Aries — March 21/April 20

Romance is looking good for the single Aries. New love may be just around the corner. Be on the lookout for a sexy Scorpio. On Tuesday, don't take a bad mood out on family. If you're feeling particularly stressed, you may be better off keeping to yourself for a while.

Taurus — April 21/May 21

Don't ignore new opportunities, no matter how small or insignificant they may seem. There could be a diamond in the rough waiting for you. A friend may confide in you towards the end of the week. Be sure to keep confidential words to yourself. An important letter finally will arrive.

Gemini — May 22/June 21

Although flirting may give a boost to your ego, it may not be too helpful for your reputation — especially in the workplace. Keep up a professional appearance. There's money to be made through an unusual method or source. Stay alert, and listen — really listen — to what people tell you.

Cancer — June 22/July 22

Work hard, and get chores out of the way early in the week. Then, you'll have extra time later on for more pleasurable activities. A new understanding in a romantic relationship changes the way you view your partner. You may realize that you have to pull more of the emotional weight.

Leo — July 23/August 23

Got a case of the blues? All you probably need is a break from routine. Let your spontaneous side take over, and do something out of the ordinary. Control jealousy in a love relationship, especially if you're involved with a Gemini or Aquarius. On Friday, don't jump to conclusions.

Virgo — Aug 24/Sept 22

Subtlety is your key to success this week. Stay cool, and you'll get what you want. Trust your own judgment when it comes to making important decisions. Domestic responsibilities may be the source of aggravation. Be sure to voice frustrations clearly — but in a sensitive way.

Libra — Sept 23/Oct 23

While good financial news may lighten a heavy burden, it is wise to keep spending to a minimum. Is there a bill you're forgetting? Better check your files. Did you promise yourself you would never date again? You may just meet someone this week who will convince you to change your policy! A Scorpio makes your weekend more interesting.

Scorpio — Oct 24/Nov 22

Too much to do and not enough time to do it in? Give yourself a break, and seek some help. You love control, but what good is it if it makes you nuts? A cash gift or your partner's sudden financial success will give you cause to celebrate. A big trip could be in your immediate future.

Sagittarius — Nov 23/Dec 21

Extra effort will be needed to make an important project run smoothly. You'll probably have to give up socializing time, but it will be well worth it in the end. Unless you want to spend your weekend arguing, be patient and diplomatic with temperamental family members.

Capricorn — Dec 22/Jan 20

Traveling this week? If so, double-check all necessary documents, or something could be left out. Show your appreciation to someone who has supported you — especially if you are the boss at work. A family member will bring home good news, and there will be reason to celebrate.

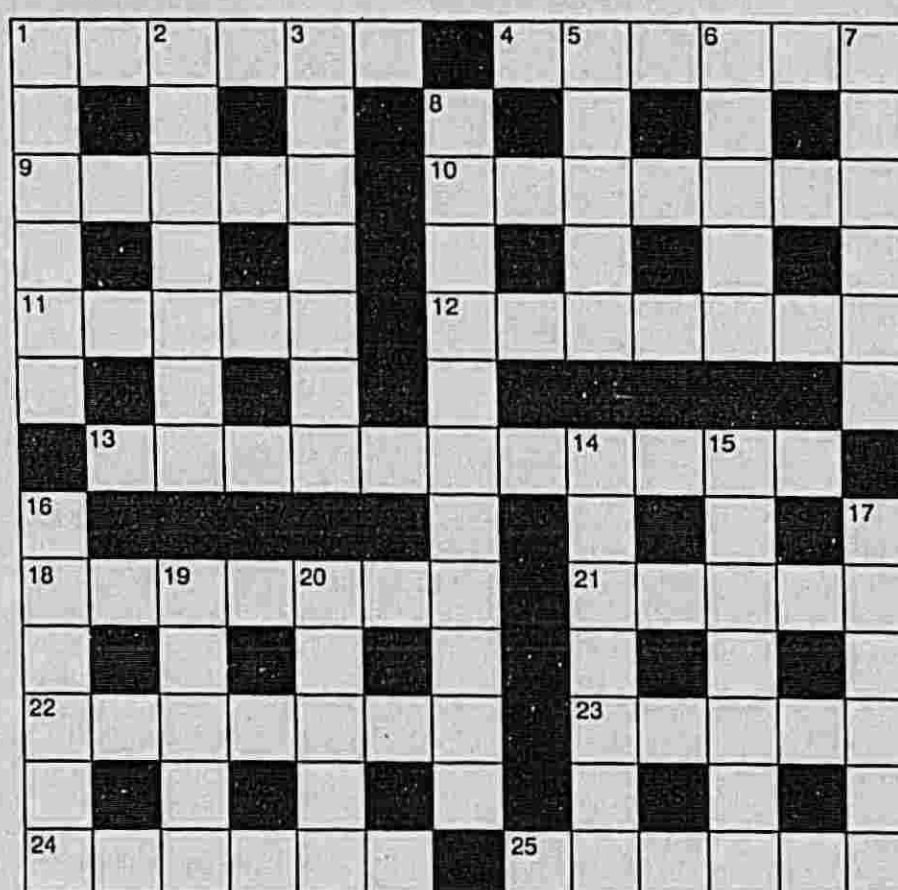

Aquarius — Jan 21/Feb 18

Your talents will be put to the test, and you'll pass with flying colors! Not only will you impress others, but you'll impress yourself, too. A loved one's bad habits may rub off on you if you're not careful. Keep a close watch on spending. A pleasant surprise comes on Friday.

Pisces — Feb 19/March 20

Using guilt to get others to do things for you is not the best course of action. Perhaps you should come up with a better approach. An old friend from out of town may pay a visit. Your always-generous hospitality will be very much appreciated. Don't neglect your diet this week.

Pink elephants to brighten Easter baskets

When making Easter baskets this year, try adding an elephant to all of the eggs and candy, and raise money for leukemia research at the same time.

Ellie, a stuffed, pink elephant named by a 3-year-old leukemia patient, is available for purchase at Barnes and Noble Book Store, Nordstrom in Old Orchard Center in Skokie and through the Lincolnwood-based Leukemia Research Foundation by calling 982-1480.

Robyn Feldmar, the young leukemia patient who named Ellie, kept the stuffed animal by her side throughout a prolonged hospital stay, from chemotherapy to her bone marrow transplant and Ellie has remained by her side ever since.

"Ellie promises to be a wonderful addition to any Easter basket and serves as a fun and safe toy for children of all ages," noted Janie Weisenberg, executive director of the Leukemia Research Foundation.

Ellie sells for $21 with a major portion of the proceeds benefiting the foundation in its efforts to fund world-wide medical research seeking a cure for leukemia, assist leukemia patients with medical care costs, sponsor bone marrow registry drives and organize therapeutic support groups for leukemia patients and their families. More than $40,000 has been raised through the sale of Ellie to date.

Leukemia is a malignant condition in which the overproduction of atypical white blood cells interferes with the function of vital organs and, if uncontrolled, causes death. Leukemia is the most common cause of death among young people ages 1 to 24, second only to accidents. More than 19,000 people will die from leukemia this year alone.

To order an Ellie, or for information on leukemia, call the Leukemia Research Foundation at 982-1480.

Enrollment underway for North Shore MS Walk

Paths through downtown Highland Park and along wooded areas will be the setting for the North Shore route of the ninth annual MS Walk on Sunday, April 13. Participants in the event presented by Mercedes-Benz will follow a trail of nine miles beginning at Wolters Field, half a mile east of Hwy. 41 on Park Avenue West. Proceeds collected from sponsors of walkers will benefit research programs and client services of the Chicago-Greater Illinois Chapter, National Multiple Sclerosis Society.

The MS chapter has a goal of $1 million or more for the event which has routes in 12 northern Illinois communities. Organizers hope to have 432 walkers taking part on the North Shore route. The chapter's efforts are supported by a strong, active walk committee of volunteers: Randy Denman, Grayslake; Susie Link, Vernon Hills; Georgeane O'Toole, Riverwoods; Lori Tisinai, Lake Bluff, and Jessica Levin, Evanston.

Check-in time for the MS Walk begins at 8 a.m. with the official start time for the trek at 9 a.m. Volunteers will be on hand to greet the walkers and encourage them at rest stops along the way and the route will be further assisted by high school students who are members of the Leo Club.

Walkers may take park on their own or as part of teams formed of family, friends or coworkers. Participants who raise at least $100 receive a 1997 MS Walk T-shirt. A choice of Lettuce Entertain You or Spiegel's certificates in increasing value are awarded at levels from $300 to $5,000 raised. Round-trip airline tickets for two to anywhere in the continental U.S. served by American Airlines go to the top MS Walk fundraiser.

In addition to the North Shore route, walks are scheduled for the Fox Valley (St. Charles), Naperville, Oak Forest, the Chicago lakefront, McHenry County (Crystal Lake), Northwest Suburban (Elk Grove Village/Schaumburg), Joliet, Kankakee, Morris, Rockford and DeKalb.

Registration forms, information on how to form a walk team, and details of individual routes are available by calling the MS chapter at (312)922-8000 or 1(800)922-0482.

Breast cancer—make a difference at tax time

Breast cancer will strike over 9,200 women, and claim the lives of 2,200 women in Illinois this year. It is also estimated that 740 women will be diagnosed with cervical cancer, and 220 women will lose their battle against this disease.

To help in the fight against these diseases, Illinois created a Breast and Cervical Cancer Research Fund featured in the voluntary contributions section on Illinois State Income Tax forms. In 1993, Illinois became the second state to start this fund. Having reached the minimum donation requirement of $100,000 for three consecutive years, the fund will be included on 1996 tax forms.

The Illinois Department of Public Health (IDPH) distributes money raised by donations made on individual income tax forms. An advisory panel and peer review committee that includes members of the Y-ME National Breast Cancer Organization and the Illinois Chapter of the American Cancer Society review the research grants.

To date, more than $350,000 has been given to Illinois-based research institutions. The funds finance studies ranging from gene therapy for breast cancer to peer education for local community-based breast cancer screening programs.

This special research fund provides encouragement for Illinois physicians, hospitals, labs, and educational institutions to channel their energies towards finding ways to prevent, detect, and cure these deadly diseases.

Victory Memorial Hospital supports adoptive families

Today, families come together in many ways. Some people choose to begin or add to their families through adoption. At Victory Memorial Hospital, Waukegan, employees who build their families through adopting are now eligible for a new benefit program.

"When a family chooses adoption they know that it isn't going to be simple. There are many personal, legal, medical and financial issues to be handled," says Tim Harrington, Victory Memorial Hospital president. "Victory's new adoption benefit is designed to assist employees in these areas."

Healthcare policies routinely support families who give birth to a child by covering physician, hospital and related medical costs. But, until now, Victory employees who choose to adopt a child did so at their own expense. The new benefit makes up to $3,000 per adoption available to help meet the medical, legal and travel expenses including during the adoption process.

Adopting a child may also take more time than giving birth. Prospective parents often need to participate in a series of interviews, home visits, meetings with lawyers and social workers, court dates, etc. Victory's program provides up to 12 weeks unpaid leave through the Family Medical Leave Act.

Additional paid time may be taken based on accrued personal days. This time may also be used after the child is in the home, to help parents and child adjust to the new environment and form a strong bond. The adoption benefit program at Victory Hospital is available to all full and part-time employees with 12 months service to the hospital.

"Our employees are our most important resource. We are pleased to be able to assist them in meeting the challenges of balancing work and family needs," says Harrington. "Victory is proud to be among the leaders in Lake County, setting an example for employers to support people who choose adoption as their method of building families."

Disabled American Veterans support local veteran's hospital

The Disabled American Veterans (DAV) State Dept. was presented with a check for $3,500 to the North Chicago VA Medical Center. The funds will purchase a large-screen television and exercise rowing machine.

The television will be placed in the Adult Day Health Care for veterans participating in educational and therapeutic programs such as disease prevention, post stroke care, information on nutrition and support for caregivers and various recreational programming. The rowing machine will be a welcome addition to the Kinesiotherapy section of physical and rehabilitation medicine service, which boasts state-of-the-art equipment.

The DAV has a long-standing commitment to veterans and the North Chicago VA Medical Center. They have supported many programs through donations and also have volunteers serving in various departments.

Questions regarding donations and volunteerism at the medical center can be directed to Lisa Howard, community affairs service, at 578-3714.

Treatment for eating disorders available at Highland Park Hospital

It is estimated that eight million people in this country suffer from an eating disorder. People suffering from an eating disorder and their families can find support and treatment at Highland Park Hospital's Center for Eating Disorders.

The Center is a nationally recognized program that provides outpatient treatment as well as support and counseling to individuals with eating disorders. "Eating disorders are psychosocial problems that can be helped," says Highland Park Hospital therapist Shelley Duffy. "Eating disorders come in many different forms. The most common are anorexia, when a person restricts food intake, and bulimia, which involves bingeing and purging," says Duffy. "We offer groups ranging from early awareness education, to coping skills development and cognitive behavioral therapy techniques."

The Center is a team of skilled professionals that treat every facet of eating disorders in a caring and nurturing environment. Other program features are family therapy, family education support group, several levels of outpatient treatment, weekly dinner clubs, and an alumni group. Highland Park Hospital serves as the headquarters location for Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders (ANAD), a national educational and self-help organization dedicated to treating eating disorders.

County pet owners warned to be careful of potential raccoon rabies epidemic

Over the past several years, the eastern United States has been experiencing a raccoon rabies epidemic. In fact, in 1995, the latest statistical year available, states in the mid-Atlantic and northeast regions of the U.S. accounted for almost 90 percent of the reported rabies in the country. While currently remote, Lake County residents are warned of the potential for this to move to the Midwest.

"We want to alert people in Lake County to be aware of the potential for this epidemic to spread," stated Dale Galassie, executive director of the Lake County Health Dept. He explained that, to this point, westward progression of the epidemic has been slowed by geographic barriers such as the Great Lakes and the Appalachian Mountains. However, should rabies infection become established in raccoons in the Ohio Valley region, the epidemic could spread more rapidly across the Midwest.

Fortunately, according to Galassie, there have been no documented human rabies cases in the U.S. associated with this epidemic. This is due to the fact that raccoon bites are easily recognized and preventive treatment is quickly administered. In addition, rabies vaccination requirements for dogs and cats have provided a buffer between wild animals rabies and humans. However, according to Galassie, this buffer is not as large as it should be. "We estimate that a significant proportion of Lake County's dogs and cats—perhaps as many as 50,000—are not properly vaccinated against rabies," he said. "This is a large and very susceptible animal population that could bring rabies much closer to families in the future."

Lake County residents can protect themselves and their pets from rabies in the following ways:

- First and foremost is to make sure that all dogs and cats are appropriately vaccinated against rabies, consistent with the Lake County Rabies Control Ordinance. Pet vaccinations are available through your local veterinarian.

- Avoid wild animals and, especially avoid the temptation to make a pet of a wild animal.

- Be sure to stay away from any animal that is acting contrary to its nature. For example, a normally nocturnal or shy animal that approaches during daylight is suspect.

For answers to any questions about rabies, or about pet vaccinations, call the Lake County Animal Control Program at 949-9925.

Springtime remodeling projects can cause sneezing

Those popular springtime activities—home repairs and remodeling—could leave one literally sniffing and sneezing in the dust, warns an allergy expert at Loyola Univ. Medical Center, Chicago.

"Unless the work area is well ventilated and precautions taken to prevent dust, wood particles and other irritants from circulating throughout the house, family members susceptible to allergic reactions could begin experiencing sinus congestion, headaches and even difficulties breathing," said Dr. Mary C. Tobin, director of allergy/immunology at Loyola.

In fact, she has a name for the condition—"renovation sinusitis."

"Remodeling dust and other materials can so irritate the respiratory tracts, especially the sinuses, that bacterial overgrowth occurs, and the individual develops a sinus infection," Tobin said.

At greatest risk are individuals who already have asthma or suffer from traditional springtime allergies caused by airborne pollen and molds.

Tobin's caution not only includes particles and fibers, such as those created in sanding wood or wallboard or handling glass fiber insulation, but extends to fumes generated by paint, caulking and stripping compounds and other chemical substances.

"If your indoor remodeling is being done by professionals, insist that they make every effort to confine dust and gases to the immediate work area. You can help by closing off ducts in the rooms where the work is being done; using fans to exhaust dust and fumes outside; operating high efficiency, purified air filters (HEPA); and cleaning work areas with wet rags and mops at the end of each day," Tobin said.

For "do-it-yourselfers," Tobin's advice is to wear face masks designed to prevent inhalation of dust or fumes and to take breaks.

"Do not try to do everything at once.

Gardens are ready for winter to leave them alone

Old man winter seems to want to hang on this year. How I wish it would leave us alone. I yearn for the tiny flower heads of the crocus to emerge from their sleepy winter-time nap.

See the tree and ornamental buds emerging to show us their beauty. Smell and touch the fragrant viburnums and perennial flowers that intertwine in the gardens and enjoy sitting out on the new brick patio.

Picture this: The canopy of a large shade tree draping over the new brick patio to create shade as you read the Sunday paper. The gentle breezes catch the leaves of this tree and the sound emulates gentle waves of water to help soothe one's soul.

Your neighbor's unsightly shed in now hidden behind a wall of evergreen trees planted in a staggered fashion to highlight a magnificent semi-weeping flowering crab. The branching habit of this plant leads your eye towards the ground where clumps of Iris, daylilies, ornamental grasses, and low growing evergreen groundcovers complete this garden.

Birds and butterflies and other nectar loving insects are attracted to the viburnums, hawthorns and butterfly bush planted along the back of your lot to help soften the encroaching houses and provide you with more privacy.

Your newly designed herb garden is growing nicely and has provided you with many plants for added flavor to your foods.

Spring will come soon and with its coming, one may want to begin or put some finishing touches on any plans made for their grounds. Visit your neighborhood nursery or garden center and begin to awaken your creative juices once again.—by MIKE GRECO, landscape architect, owner of Mill Creek Nursery, Inc., Wadsworth. For questions call 838-0501.

Pace yourself so that you are not exposed to dusty areas for extended periods of time," she stated.

Despite all the precautions, however, some projects may literally drive you out of the house.

"If dust levels become so high and uncontrollable in the house, allergic individuals may want to find alternative living quarters—or leave town for vacation—until the project is completed," Tobin said.

Symptoms of allergic reactions include swelling of sinuses and sinus congestion, itchy eyes, coughing, headache and even tightness in the chest and labored breathing.

"Anyone who begins experiencing these symptoms should leave the work area—or the house—immediately," Tobin said.

Persons currently under treatment for other allergic disorders should be especially attentive to taking their medications during the remodeling project, Tobin added.

More children think violence is OK

While the root of the problem is complex, the solution appears to lie in community, parental involvement

CLAUDIA M. LENART
Regional Editor

Incidents of children behaving violently swept through Lake County last week. Incidents from a second-grader carrying guns in Park City, to fourth-graders threatening a bus driver with baseball bats in Libertyville, to a Lake Bluff student threatening a teacher with a knife.

According to experts from the Northern Illinois Council Against Substance Abuse (NICASA), these are not isolated incidents.

"It's very well documented, not only are children more violent, but there's also more violence among adults," said Lisa Hartman, prevention specialist for NICASA, who teaches a life skills class for teens in Round Lake Unit Dist. 116 and Gurnee Dist. 56.

Hartman notes that violence has become much more accepted; it doesn't surprise us anymore. "When someone reports a shooting spree on the evening news, it's reported matter of factly. I've seen clips from 10 years ago and they didn't report it like that. There was horror in their voices," she said.

Hartman noticed that children find it much more acceptable to hit another person. "When I was growing up, hitting was wrong," said Hartman, 30. "Now it's perfectly acceptable. It takes a lot of work to change that perception that it's OK."

ANTIOCH PUBLIC LIBRARY

ANTIOCH, IL 60002
Laural Dahl, prevention coordinator for NICASA, said children are telling social workers that they are very angry. She said anger and stress leads to people being too reactive and acting out violently, whether in school, in the workplace or on the expressway.

Lisa Hartman,

"We all need to take a breath and slow down. People are in too much of a hurry. Computers aren't fast enough for them," said Dahl. "They're not taking time to observe, to analyze, they just react. Prevention is about trying to be more proactive."

Hartman said studies show depression and stress among children are on the increase. She said she read a study which found 18-year-olds today show the same stress level as a 55-year-old. See VIOLENCE page C6

Agencies work to repair erosion on Squaw Creek

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

The Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District, in cooperation with the Village of Round Lake, has begun work on an bioengineering project to stabilize the banks of Squaw Creek in Round Lake.

The work is being performed as part of a Conservation 2000 grant approved by the State of Illinois.

While planning for the project has been underway for nearly two years, restoration work began in early March.

The work involves planting willow posts on the creek banks to provide soil stabilization, installing an erosion blanket, removing a log jam which caused tow erosion and using contour wattling, which is the process of placing interwoven live and dead brush bundled with twine or wire into the waterway to create a line of defense against erosion when the whips grow. Dogwoods will be planted at the top of the creek banks to further limit soil erosion.

"Our village is excited about this project," said Doug Rowley, director of public works. "This is a stepping stone to build on for us. For a group of guys whose function is primarily snow plowing—this is a very innovative project."

The project involves four site areas along the creek, one area upstream and three downstream from a footbridge which crosses the creek at Lincoln Ave.

"The purpose of the state Conservation 2000 grants are to develop and demonstrate effective bioengineering programs for stream bank erosion," said Lisa Gunther, resource conservationist with the Lake County Soil and Water Conservation District. "This project is a good example of how the district can work in cooperation with village and other agencies to restore eroded areas."

The staff and directors of the district explained the project during a Streambank Stabilization Demonstration Day, March 25. More than 50 people attended the demonstration including members of the group Citizens for Conservation, Botanic Gardens, homeowners association members, park district and village employees as well as employees of the Natural Resources Conservation Service and other such agencies.

Gurnee examining procedures after tank blast

Two firefighters injured

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Gurnee Fire Department safety procedures are being examined in the wake of an oxygen tank explosion and flash fire which sent two firefighters to the hospital. The cause of the blast remains under investigation.

Robert Szczerba, 36, of Gurnee, is in stable condition at St. Mary's Hospital burn unit in Milwaukee.

"We have asked a fireman who is a friend of the family to stay with them at the hospital. Bob is improving, in good spirits," Gurnee Deputy Chief Fred Friedl said.

State, local and federal officials as well as the department's safety committee are reviewing procedures after the tank exploded during routine maintenance, March 23.

"It occurred inside the ambulance at the Gurnee Fire Station No. 1 during routine inspection of an ambulance," said Friedl, of the Gurnee Fire Dept.

Szczerba, was transported to St. Mary's via Flight for Life Helicopter following the 8:30 a.m. incident. Firefighter Jon Cavanaugh, also a Gurnee resident, was transported to St. Therese Medical Center and released. He was treated for smoke inhalation.

Friedl said there has been an outpouring of cards and many visitors to the hospital. Visitors were asked not to come on March 27 and 28 as Szczerba was scheduled to undergo surgery.

He suffered third and second degree burns to his left hand, right thumb and legs and face.

Szczerba, if all goes well, could begin therapy in eight weeks.

The explosion took place while firemen were working on an oxygen tank, a carry-on unit used to assist people needing help breathing.

"The damage to the ambulance was extensive. See BLAST page C6 response we received to the demonstration day," said Gunther. "This is the first time we have held such an event and it's refreshing to see there are so many people from different walks of life interested in our environment."

The workshop presentation was followed by a visit to the Squaw Creek site where attendees observed workers planting willow posts and observed other work which has been accomplished.

Gunther said the project will be monitored over the next six months to one year to evaluate its success.

"Bioengineering techniques are not new but they have not been widely used," Gunther said.

"We would like to get additional grants to continue the work down the creek."

Squaw Creek is a natural creek which was dredged in the late '50s and channelized.

It primarily serves as drainage for installed field tiles on several acres of land. It flows north into Long Lake.

Child enticer spotted

LINDENHURST—A possible child enticer suspect again may have been in the Lindenhurst area.

A 10-year-old child reported there was a man with dark hair with a white car with some rust spot pull his window down and was going to ask him a question. The child didn't answer and ran away, according to Commander Joe Moravec, of Lindenhurst police.

There have been no other reports in the village. Last week, there were three incidents where a suspect with a similar description attempted to lure children into his car.

Police are tracking down 19 solid leads they hope will end in an arrest of the suspect, according to Lt. Rich Eckenstahler of the Sheriff's Department.

The Sheriff's Department has been talking with Area 5 in Chicago to see if there is any connection between the incidents. He added there is no proof a connection, but said police don't want to rule it out either. —by ALEC JUNG

Enticer also spotted

GRAYSLAKE—The widespread reports of a child enticer attempting to lure children around Lake County and beyond have hit Grayslake, with two reported incidents of a man in a white rust spotted vehicle asking children if they would like to see his puppy.

The suspect approached two groups of girls separately in the vicinity of Lakeview and Meadowview Schools in the last two weeks. The Grayslake Police Department distributed a warning flier to Grayslake District 46 schools and the district sent home copies with all the children. —by ELIZABETH EAKEN

Residents seek zoning controls

GURNEE—Residents living near a piece of property on Elm Road received sympathy and promise of an investigation in their attempt to have the land cleaned up and future business ventures stopped.

Bryan Berlin and his mother Dolores appeared before the Gurnee Village Board seeking action on the vacant piece of property. They claim the last renters there operated an automobile repair business there at all hours of the day and night.

Land owner David Newhouse, pastor of the Living Well United Methodist Church, said he planned to remodel the property and has cleaned it up.

"We are clearly instructing the staff to take this type of action. The board is sympathetic to your views," Gurnee Mayor Richard Welton said.

Newhouse will receive a letter from village officials asking him to clean up the lots further and the future use will be monitored by police and neighbors. The garage and home are available for rent. —by STEVE PETERSON

Protectionism group formed

WAUCONDA TOWNSHIP—A Williams Park subdivision resident wants Wauconda officials to take action for the sewage which has been pumped into Slocum Lake for years.

In order to make everything "crystal clear," Winnig formed STOP-UI (Wauconda) — Sewage Treatment Or Pay-Up! — a new organization which Winnig hopes to expand to other communities where residents face similar problems.

What STOP-UI wants is for the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to enforce all of its laws regarding air, land and water pollution, he said.

"All we are asking for is the right to live in a clean and safe environment," said Winnig. "It looks like a lot, but it is real basic stuff," he said. "We are not calling for anything but full enforcement of the law and doing what is right." —by SPENCER SCHEIN

QUOTE of the WEEK

'I wouldn't sell myself out for three grand. If I was sneaking something I would not have listed it on my economic report.'

Alberta Meyer, candidate for Fox Lake mayor who received a $3,000 campaign donation from a home developer during her run for Recorder of Deeds. The money was received 10 days prior to her voting yes on the developer's proposal as a Fox Lake trustee

Sewage to be hauled away

ISLAND LAKE—To the delight of many residents, the Island Lake Sanitary Sewer District board of directors have agreed to find a contract hauler to take sewage away from the facility and the adjacent homes.

No longer will treated and dried sewage, known as bio-solids, be spread on the property the district leases from Joe and Nancy Pesz, whose 38 acres at 4705 S. Roberts Rd. abut the district's plant facility at 420 W. Timber Trail Rd.

Residents complained about the odor and potential for property value loss if the district expanded its operations and continued its practice of spreading the treated sewage onto property its leased from the Pesz' the past 19 years.

Instead of spreading bio-solids on the lease land, the district will stockpile them until a hauler is found. Board members also directed legal counsel to modify its condemnation suit against the Peszes from 38 acres to approximately 8 acres for plant expansion only, Bangle said. —by SPENCER SCHEIN

Runner races for leukemia

LAKE ZURICH—Scott Eichelman is on a mission which he hopes will take him all the way to Anchorage, Alaska, this summer. Eichelman intends to run in the Mayor's Midnight Sun Marathon on June 21 on behalf of the Leukemia Society of America TEAM in Training, and for those who cannot run for themselves.

"I have always been interested in fund-raisers and helping people through the Jaycees," said Eichelman, a five year member of the Lake Zurich Jaycees.

This year, Eichelman combined his interests of the Jaycees with his interests in the Alpine Runners Club, as the organization's race director, to try and raise money to help a St. Charles child suffering from the disease.

"If I raise $3,500 for leukemia, I will be able to enter this race in Alaska," Eichelman said. In order to receive a donation form call Eichelman at 550-1115, or e-mail him at: SEICH@ALLSTATE.COM. —by SPENCER SCHEIN

Candidate home attacked

VENETIAN VILLAGE—Lake Villa Township Supervisor Candidate Virginia McGregor was upset people would go so far as to throw a rock at her home. The incident took place March 20, at approximately 9:40 p.m., according to McGregor. She said she heard the large rock hitting the siding on her house but was unable to see who threw it.

She also reports several of her signs have been taken down, including the sign in front of her home. Some signs in her subdivision crossed out her name and replaced it with a derogatory one. One sign was spray painted.

No one was hurt in the incident and there have been no other incidents. —by ALEC JUNG

Business begins to boom

MUNDELEIN—Plans for three new businesses in the Village of Mundelein were announced at a committee of the whole meeting Monday. A used car super store hopes to set up shop in the Kmart building at Routes 45 and 60, which has been vacant for several years. A lumber yard downtown may house a distributor of construction supplies, and a vacant restaurant on Route 60 may be cooking in a few months.

"We're very excited," said Mayor Marilyn Sindles, who has been battling charges that her administration has not worked hard enough on business development in the village.

Although all incumbent candidates deny any deliberate action, the announcement came just one week before the April 1 election. None of the business deals are final at this time. —by SUZIE REED

Single mark vote won't be missed

The Tuesday, April 1, election will be conducted without straight ticket voting under a new change in the Illinois election code banning a single mark to vote for a party slate.

While legislation doing away with a single X to vote for a complete slate was pushed through by Republicans to counteract the much heralded Cook County Democratic "one punch" strategy, the election code change is expected to have a significant impact on political campaigning in Illinois all the way from the grassroots level through state offices.

Eliminating the single X rule will put a premium on education and individuality in the election process. There still will be parties and slates, but electors will have to pick out slated candidates and mark for them individually. Members of a slate will have to work harder explaining who the candidates are and what they stand for. The new rule will encourage more face-to-face politicking.

Doing away with straight ticket voting will have a beneficial effect on local elections where there is a disproportionate emphasis on popularity as opposed to qualifications and issues. Independent candidates will have a better chance. Team play and organized parties still will play a role, but the election process cannot help but benefit from elimination of mindless single stroke ticket voting.

Whatever your preference for representation, slates or unallied candidates, make an effort to get to the polls Tuesday. The candidates will appreciate your interest. And you'll make yourself feel better for having voted.

Reform first, then overhaul funding

Republicans have it right when they say education reform should come before overhauling education funding. Otherwise, taxpayers run the risk of throwing more money at education, as they have done for years. What they've received in return are declining test scores and higher taxes.

State Rep. Andrea Moore (R-Libertyville) is among the handful of GOP legislators to wave a flag of caution when suggestions are raised, as Gov. Jim Edgar did recently, about coupling education funding reform with real estate tax relief. Moore feels strongly that residents of her district of upscale homes, as is typical of a good bit of Lake County, would come off losers if local control of the public schools, as insured by reliance on real estate taxes, is watered down.

Moore offers an interesting slant on the gospel, as espoused by teachers unions, big city media and liberals, that Illinois voters are ready to scuttle real estate taxes, replacing it with an increase in income taxes. Moore said she found surprising support in her district, which includes parts of Gurnee and Warren Township, for an increase in sales tax to help the schools. The shift to utilizing tax from consumption makes sense, particularly in the case of senior citizens. The only problem is that apportioning sales tax for individual school districts would create an administrative nightmare.

In discussing school funding problems with this newspaper the other day, Moore offered one intriguing suggestion: hold village and school board elections the same day to emphasize the link between municipal growth and runaway taxation. That way village officials in our mushrooming area would be less apt to cavalierly dump one of the biggest suburban growth problems—exploding enrollments—on the beleaguered schools. Now there's a suggestion worth getting excited about.

Viewpoint Classic clash spurs rewrite of script

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

In growth happy Lake County, one contest in the Tuesday, April 1 election encapsules the classic clash between the "drawbridge" mentality of newcomers and old-timers in a village clawing desperately to catch up with its neighbors who have carried the county from a less than half million population a decade ago to nearly 600,000.

The contest pits the vision of a veteran leader who is orchestrating a plan for his community to take its place alongside Gurnee, Grayslake, Vernon Hills, Lake Zurich—all the "go go" towns of the 80s and 90s—and a young sales executive who joined the Marines at 18 now leading new homeowners seeking solitude and safety in the suburbs.

The visionary is Round Lake Mayor Jim Lumber, who has approved blueprints for the controversial 1,800 home Pritzker project, a 600 unit apartment complex fronting on a lake and 600 homes planned for an area adjacent to a vast wetlands.

The voice of the newcomers is Patrick Smythe, manager of one of the largest auto dealerships in Lake County, who insists that growth in his new hometown with a one-man building department will destroy the small town atmosphere sought by newcomers.

Lumber, helping plan the growth and development of College Lake County for 31 years as a CLC trustee, maintains that Round Lake, with a population of 3,550 in the 1990 census, has been "left behind." Mayor Lumber says Round Lake only has added 850 citizens in the last eight years.

Smythe insists that the Pritzker project and the other two developments coveted by Round Lake through annexation are an example of a village "out of control" and an administration intoxicated with development.

Lumber draws a scenario of what he describes as "measured growth" paced by the Pritzker construction build-out of 180 homes per year for the next decade. Smythe and his supporters skoff at the projections, asking the question about what major developer ever held to a 10-year construction pace? The challenger says current leaders ought to "think out" existing problems before embarking on new chapters of growth. Smythe forecasts that Round Lake is incapable of absorbing an estimated 3,000 residential units in a few short years without chaos and skyrocketing taxes.

Confident and relaxed, Lumber is drawing on a reservoir of community pride to head off the challenge of the newcomers who are fighting to preserve small-town ways. Somehow the script seems topsy-turvy, but that picture will be cleared up election day.

WON'T HAPPEN—One campaign encounter for the April 1 election that won't happen is a debate between Avon Township Supervisor Russ Christian and Suzanne Simpson, who is running for supervisor of Warren Township on a platform of creative taxpayer services.

Christian speaks out frequently that the Illinois township system is outmoded and duplicative; that township responsibilities should be combined or turned over to the county. Don't tell that to Mike Graham, who is battling to get his old Libertyville Township supervisor's job back, or State Sen. Bill Peterson (R-Long Grove) who relishes his dual role as Vernon Township supervisor.

If elected, Simpson wants to promote children's literacy classes, develop a "phone friend" to enhance after-school safety for latch key kids and add public open space. Simpson's menu sounds like a full plate for her township and a healthy new direction.

NEW TEAM—Jeff Zgonina, one of Carmel High's all-time grid-iron heroes, is about to sign with the St. Louis Rams. After graduation from Purdue, where he was an All Big 10 selection at nose guard, Zgonina spent three years with the Pittsburgh Steelers and had stops at Carolina and Atlanta. His travels have become typical of professional football careers.

At St. Louis, Zgonina will be united with Mike White, one-time University of Illinois coach, who tried to recruit Jeff. White is a Ram assistant after being bounced as coach of the Oakland Raiders.

STILL WATCHING—Just when we thought Davida Terry had retired from the job of keeping tabs on an oppressive county government, the Lincolnshire deer lady and environmentalist shows up to do battle with the Forest Preserve Dist. over tree girdling in Grainger Woods and chemical reforestation. Davida brandishes like a badge of honor notification from Forest Preserve Dir. Steve Messerli that she is subject to a fine of up to $500 for interfering with preserve work. "Next time you hear from me I'll be in jail," Davida rejoined cheerily.

SUCCESSOR?—There is wonderment if anyone will pick up the mantle of Don Smith, the rugged individualist who resigned from the Mundelein High School after 19 years because he realized his ideas are out of sync with the younger generation. Smith, 86, aschewed educational fads, sticking to an old-fashioned theory that basics are more important in public education than social engineering projects heaped on public schools today. Smith, long retired after a career with the federal government, harbors the quaint notion that too many school board members see their election as a social outing rather than a responsibility to make the tough decisions of separating school business from educational gimmickry. We'll miss his insightful letters to the editor.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—If grand kids Erika and John are any indication, old children's stories like Cinderella and the Three Little Pigs are as popular with the younger set as ever. They enjoy Star Wars technology, but nothing rivets their attention like the adventures of Little Red Riding Hood. Wolves have a strange fascination for pre-schoolers.

Trustworthy candidate

Editor:
I have been a neighbor of Suzanne Simpson for the last ten years. Simpson is a candidate currently running for Warren Township Supervisor with the United for Warren Party.

Simpson should be elected as she is committed to open space, after school child/safety senior programs, and a much needed literacy project. She is trusted by her neighbors, community leaders, as well as her co-workers.

Queen vs. protector

Case for conservatism

Editor:
She spent eight years on the school board. Does that qualify Kathy Pannhausen to become Supervisor of Fremont Township? Kathy helped the school board do a fine job for the children. With the mind set that nothing is too good for the children, it has been a story of tax and spend. Few people would disagree with the concept that our school children should get whatever they need to enhance their education. Referendum after referendum have been put before the voters, with Kathy's wholehearted approval, in order to expand the See LETTERS page C5

-PARTY LINES-

Two candidates show politics are a family matter

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political opinion is prepared from staff reports.

Two well-known Lake County surnames are unlike to soon fade away from the political scene as the next generation of each family is one the April 1 ballot.

Shawn Depke is hoping to become the third generation to lead Warren Township. He is hoping to replace his retiring father, Bob Depke in the post. His grandfather, Justus Depke, also served as Warren Twp. supervisor. If Depke is successful the Depke name will have been at the top of the letterhead for nearly 40 years.

Cheryl Neal Ditzig, daughter of County Board Representative Bob Neal (R-Wadsworth) is hoping to become supervisor of Zion Twp. She has more than 20 years of political experience to draw on by giving her pops a jingle.

Ready for more—And speaking of the Zion Township race, Supervisor Truman Hudson is anxious to get election day behind him so he can build on a variety of social programs he has instituted in the 16 years he has served. Only Cheryl Neal Ditzig, the wife of a policeman, stands in his way of a fifth term. Ditzig has some social service programs of her own to try including Alcoholics Anonymous for adolescents.

Mutual aid—Wauconda Mayor Jim Eschenbauch and Island Lake Mayor Chuck Amrich, neighboring village executives and running for re-election, have only nice things to say about each other.

Amrich

Both agree that openness and good communications is the key to their friendship and good relations between their communities. Working together they point to such things as lower garbage pickup costs, a model senior citizens transportation program boundary agreements and an annual clean-up day as positive examples of their cooperation.

Eschenbauch is completing his first term; Amrich is campaigning for his fourth term. Besides working together, they share a life experience that shaped their future. Both are Vietnam War veterans.

Dog gone—Now that she's unallied with any factions running independently for re-election April 1, Lake Zurich Trustee Karen Demos-Rosenthal describes herself: "I'm a Chihuahua nipping at issues on behalf of the public." Both backers and detractors alike describe the two-term official more like a bulldog.

Looking for home—Former members of the now defunct Avon Republican Club, looking for GOP fellowship, had a 14 person delegation attend the recent Wauconda Township Republican Club, Corned Beef and Cabbage feast.

Shortcomings—If Mayor Debbie Vasels of Lake Zurich is defeated for re-election April 1, opponents say it will be for three reasons: over-zealous enforcement of drunk driving laws to the detriment of neighborhood police protection, firing the village attorney and manipulating village ordinances to pave the way for the Terresters development where she now resides.

Who's boss?—Ila Bauer, a retired teacher and candidate for mayor of Round Lake Park, tells a story to illustrate that citizens need to know more about local government. To round out a social studies test, she included the question, Who is the mayor of the town where you reside?

Bauer

"Most of the students replied 'Daley.' I hope to change that if I'm elected." Bauer is uncontested on the ballot, but faces a write-in challenge from George Scherer Jr.

Pigeon-holed?—Members of the Fox Waterway Agency advisory committee are getting impatient with County Board Chairman Bob Grever to name a new liaison person from the Lake County Board.

They hope the new liaison has a better attendance record than the last, Ed Fojtik, who reportedly only attended one meeting. Maybe the reason Grever isn't in a hurry is that the committee recommended County Board Rep. Judy Martini (R-Antioch), who served on the agency before getting elected to the County Board. Grever views Martini as a member of his opposition.

Gift—Lake Zurich's Village First party, fronted by Trustee Jim Kirschke, running for mayor against incumbent Deborah A. Vasels, was the recipient of a $2,000 contribution from Priority Foods Processing on Feb. 10, five weeks before the village granted final approval to sell 7-acres it owned to the Lake Zurich-based company.

Unsavoury seasonings—Rumors that the mayoral campaign of Allen Stubitsch has been funded by businessmen John Christofalos leave a bad taste in the mouths of some Mundelein residents. The Christofalos family closed Tops Restaurant last summer and placed the blame on the current village administration for refusing to issue a liquor license. Village officials said owners failed to follow proper application procedures. Foreclosure proceedings were halted earlier this year when payment was made. The family's tangles with the law and alleged connections to illegal activities elsewhere in the county have further complicated the situation.

Independents unite—Former Wauconda Trustee Chris Weiler is hosting an informal open house for two independent candidates running in the April 1 election. Paula A. Soderman, running for Wauconda trustee, and Glenn L. Swanson, running for Wauconda Township trustee, are scheduled to appear Saturday, March 29, at O'Trains's Eatery on Main Street in downtown Wauconda, at 6 p.m.

Both agreed to meet everyone who attends, and stay until all questions have been answered.

Tiny new grandchild makes a huge impact

A star was born March 14 — Zachary, our first grandchild, Julie and Tony's eagerly awaited blessed event. Suddenly, our family has changed, there are more smiles than ever. Even our names have been altered, I'm "Grandpa Jer" now and Janice is "Granny Jani."

I wonder if there was an unusually bright star shining over Victory hospital in Waukegan because the arrival of Zach brought a multitude of worshippers from afar. In addition to the local relatives and a flock of friends, Julie's parents, sister and brother journeyed here from Friday Harbor, Wash., 1,800 miles away. A dozen cousins came from LaCrosse, Wis.

I surely wasn't that big an attraction when I was born. The fifth of five brothers, I suspect the reaction was, "Oh, darn it, another boy."

My older brothers tell me I was so ugly they had to hang a pork chop around my neck to get the dog to play with me. (Big brothers feel it's their duty to pick on little brothers.)

Zachary has been greeted with gifts galore. Fresh out of gold and frankincense, I brought the myrrh. A person can never have enough myrrh.

Zach certainly didn't need additional wardrobe; even before he was born he was showered with more clothes than Calvin Klein and more toys than Mattel.

Besides some 50 baby outfits, depending on his audience he can be clad in Chicago Bulls colors or Green Bay Packers garb. He already has a tiny pair of golf spikes and an official Super Bowl football. He's almost ready for the football; he was kicking his mom a lot in recent months.

They say the acorn doesn't fall far from the tree so, since Zach's mom and dad are real smart, we expect him to be an honor student, plus an athlete. Will he have his dad's baseball skills, his mom's basketball talent? Will he be golf's next Tiger Woods?

But, hey, what if Zach turns out to be a nerd? Well, that would be lovable, too. I have the pocket protectors.

Despite the early deluge of conspicuous consumption, rest assured Julie and Tony won't spoil Zachary. That will be our job, the grandparents.

I hadn't held a newborn baby in 30-some years when they put Zach in my arms. I was afraid I might fumble the little dude, but I suppose new grandparents soon become expert at toting the tiny treasures, just as we did back when we had the babies.

Seeking advice on the care and coddling of grandchilddren, I went to a library where I found dozens of books on parenthood but none on grandparenthood. So I pored through reference books to see what child specialists had to say. Some quotes:

"Handle the child carefully. Remember, you're dealing with a sensitive, high-strung little stinker."

"The reason grandparents and grandchildren get along so well is that they have a common enemy."

A Spanish proverb: "An ounce of mother is worth a ton of priest."

And then there are the wits:

Heywood Brown: "I have never understood the fear of some parents about babies getting mixed up in the hospital. What difference does it make as long as you get a good one?"

Erma Bombeck: "When my kids become wild and unruly, I use a nice, safe playpen. When they're finished, I climb out."

Alice Roosevelt Longworth: "Giving birth is like trying to push a piano through a transom."

Florynce Kennedy: "If men could get pregnant, abortion would be a sacrament."

In all seriousness, anthropologist Margaret Mead said: "We must have a place where children can have a whole group of adults they can trust."

So here's this sweet little Zachary, brand, spankin' new to the world with a gallery of grownups who think he's the cat's pajamas and the bee's knees wrapped into one little package.

He sure is a cute little guy, and a lucky little guy. What a better world this would be if every kid had a gang like ours waiting to cherish and shepherd him.

schools and the curriculum.

One look at your tax bill and the allocation of your tax dollars will certainly confirm that the lion's share goes for education. That's the way it should be and we're not arguing that point, but when you are township supervisor you must consider all of the citizens.

Pete Tekampe is a fiscal conservative When the township outgrew its office facilities and the Fremont Highway Dept. needed more room, Tekampe made arrangements to build a new Fremont Township building. He didn't go to the residents with a referendum asking for more money for the building, he built from available funds. There was no tax and spend mind set involved. Just good old fashioned mid-west fiscal thinking. It may be of interest that he spent less on the Fremont Township building than the school district spent on their administration building. And what happened to the old Fremont Township building? It was taken over by the highway department.

Kathy Pannhausen has done a fine job for the kids, but unfortunately the same philosophy could put township government in dire financial straits. Let's keep Kathy where she belongs and Pete Tekampe where he belongs. As a wise old man once said, "If it ain't broke, don't fix it."

Porter throws support behind Edgar for Senator

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Congressman John Porter made it official this week, announcing that he would not seek the Republican nomination for senator from Illinois in 1998. He is throwing his support behind Gov. Jim Edgar, who has yet to announce his candidacy.

The announcement came as little surprise to most in political circles who had anticipated Porter would choose to continue on in his leadership position within Congress as opposed to making a run to be the freshman senator from Illinois.

"I spoke with the governor before making today's announcement and I urged him to be our Senate nominee," Porter said from his Fairfax, Va., home. "He is the kind of candidate who would appeal not only to Republicans, but to Democrats and Independents across our state who are dissatisfied by the performance of our senior senator. I hope that he decides to lead Illinois Republicans to victory in 1998 as our candidate for the United States Senate."

Edgar has said he won't make a formal announcement on whether or not he will seek the position until late summer or early fall. According to Porter, Edgar he is giving the senate race a great deal of consideration.

"A number of his colleagues are getting in on senate races across the country," Porter said.

The veteran north shore congressman said the GOP needs to nominate a mainstream candidate if it hopes to win the state senate seat.

"If we offer a candidate too far to the right in their philosophy, we will not be successful," Porter said. "Illinois is a mainstream state and we have to offer a mainstream candidate."

Porter said several Republicans had encouraged him to run for the Senate seat including Congressman Henry Hyde (R-Addison) as well as Trent Lott and Mitch McConnell. Among those encouraging him to stay in Congress was Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich.

Porter said the major factor in his decision is his continuing responsibility as Chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health & Human Services and Education.

Retired State Trooper remembered for service, encouragement

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Regional Editor

Once a State Trooper always a State Trooper.

Those may be the lasting words Illinois State Police Troopers used to describe their longtime comrade retired Lieutenant John "Bud" Murrie, of Grayslake.

Murrie dedicated nearly a half century of his life as a trooper, serving for 30 years beginning in 1946 and retiring in 1976. He died of a heart attack March 14, while on a cruise in Mexico celebrating his 50th wedding anniversary with his wife, Jacquelyn.

It's likely every police department in the county was represented at his funeral service held at Grayslake's United Protestant Church. Over a dozen State Trooper vehicles led the funeral procession to Avon Centre Cemetery where Murrie was laid to rest.

Murrie was noted by his friend Ed Hill, as one of the rare individuals that could claim Grayslake as his birthplace where he was born in 1925. He graduated from Warren Township High School and received the purple heart, after serving his country as a member of the U.S. Navy aboard the USS Birmingham during World War II.

Grayslake Mayor Pat Carey noted he been active in the community many years and active in many organizations.

Murrie was a member of the village's Economic Development Commission for many years and was one of the first members of the Grayslake Development Organization, now inactive.

Despite being retired for 21 years he remained a guiding force and role model for prospective cadets aspiring to become and Illinois State Trooper.

"With the State Police, it's more than a job, it's a way of life," said Master Sergeant Harry Masse. "Lieutenant Murrie lived the life of a State Trooper in the way that every State Trooper hopes to become, he lived the life of the state police."

Masse was one of the more than 100 Illinois State Police Troopers who paid their respects to Murrie. The troopers stood guard over Murrie's body during the wake and funeral services and police dignitaries from across the northern part of the state said they good-byes to their fellow trooper.

"The State Police are a family," Masse said. "As members of the family we try to take care of one of our own. It was an honor to give him a send-off." Murrie worked in District 15 based out of Northbrook and patrolled the Illinois tollway system. According to Masse, Murrie even during his retirement offered words of wisdom to improve the relations efficiency and communication between interacting agencies called to tollway duty.

"He was able to offer both perspectives one of the State Trooper and one from living out here," Masse noted.

But it was his spiritual embodiment as the ultimate Illinois State Trooper that his fellow troopers will most remember Murrie for, Masse said.

"He truly lived the life of a State Trooper," Masse said.

lance is quite extensive. There was no structural damage to the station, and there is no known cause," Friedl said.

The ambulance cost $135,000, according to estimates.

"It is generally turning a valve to make sure that there is enough air pressure in the cylinder. It varies, but some departments check it daily or after each shift," Lewis Landry, chief of Countryside Fire Dept., said.

"Oxygen in its purest form is very dangerous. That is why you do not have anything oily, or greasy or Teflon tape around them," he said. "The air we breathe is 21 percent oxygen and the tanks are 100 percent oxygen," he said. The tanks are regulated by the Illinois Department of Transportation.

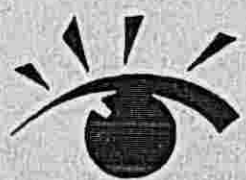

YOUR EYES

by Charlotte F. Nielsen O.D.

Directly behind the iris, or colored portion of the eye, lies the lens which focuses incoming light rays on the retina so that we can see a sharp image. When any portion of the lens becomes clouded or opaque so that light cannot readily pass through, we have a cataract.

The exact cause of cataracts is uncertain. Physical injury to the eye, insufficient nourishment supplied to eye tissue, diseases such as German Measles contracted by the mother during pregnancy are all possibilities. Cataracts normally cause no pain; they get larger and vision is progressively impaired until blindness results. The only known cure is surgery, which is successful in over 90 percent of all cases.

Cataracts are much more common among older people and will be detected early by periodic eye examination.

Violence

from 20 years ago. She said the problem is exacerbated because children are not as equipped, as adults, to deal with high levels of stress.

The reasons for increased stress, anger and violence among children are manifold. Social workers point to violence on television and in the movies, single-parent homes or homes where both parents work and children are left alone, parents who are too busy to spend time with their children, a lack of discipline in the home, a lack of positive role models and low self-esteem.

"I've had children tell me that they want some rules. Parents are too lenient; they have more of an attitude of 'if it feels good, try it,'" said Dahl, who also served on the Antioch Community High School board of education for eight years.

Hartman said, not only are children being left alone, many are burdened with responsibilities such as caring for younger children and cooking dinner. "We don't want to put all the blame on parents, but we've lost a lot," she said.

In NICASA's Life Skills program, Hartman teaches children how to deal effectively with stress. "If kids are dealing well with stress, it makes it easier to teach them to be less violent," she said.

NICASA aims to deal with social problems from substance abuse to violence by bringing various programs into the communities.

"We try to encourage more involvement on the part of families; we try to encourage communities to provide more activities for families," said Dahl. "We're not trying to tell parents how to raise their kids, but we want to encourage healthy choices."

Hartman said community members who want to be part of the solution can become involved as a volunteer through church or school programs, or even by just taking an interest in the child next door. She believes as a society, funding for prevention needs to be increased in the state and federal budgets.

Taylor offers words of wisdom, in alphabetical order

I was 4 years old when I learned my ABC's. Later, I learned that the alphabet is a wonderful organizational tool. It would be hard to find words in the dictionary or names in the phone book without it.

I believe it will work for organizing words of wisdom, as well. Here are some wise words in alphabetical order.

Wisdom from A to Z

- Achievement: I feel the greatest reward for doing is the opportunity to do more.—Jonas Salk
- Brevity: The fewer the words, the better the prayer.—Martin Luther
- Common sense: Common sense is very uncommon.—Horace Greely
- Difficulty: No man who is occupied in doing a very difficult thing, and doing it very well, ever loses his self-respect.—George Bernard Shaw

- Education: Education is a progressive discovery of our ignorance.—Will Durant
- Family: A happy family is but an earlier heaven.—John Bowring
- Generosity: If there be any truer measure of a man than by what he does, it must be by what he gives.—Robert South
- Habit: Each year, one vicious habit rooted out, in time ought to make the worst man good.—Benjamin Franklin
- Improvement: Where we cannot invent, we may at least improve.—Charles Caleb Colton
- Joy: Joys divided are increased.—

Bank encourages young savers

Waukegan Savings and Loan, located at 1324 Golf Rd., and 900 Tenth St., Waukegan, believes young people need to learn how to prepare for their financial future. The bank has launched a new savings program for youth 18 years old and under called "Kid's Treasure Chest."

"The Kid's Treasure Chest" is a feature designed to attract young savers," according to Barbara Thomas, savings manager at Waukegan Savings and Loan. "We do bank at school programs with area elementary schools and have found a great deal of interest in the concept of banking. What the students told us is that they wanted a program designed just for them!"

"Every time someone opens a 'Kid's Treasure Chest' account, they receive a free treasure chest bank," continued Thomas. We encourage continued savings by letting them pick a free gift from the big treasure chest located in our lobby. We even give the young savers their own 'register' to record deposits and withdrawals."

For more information on the program, contact Ted Stanulis at 623-6400.

Liqui-Green means customized lawn care

Liqui-Green service providers offer customized lawn and plant care programs that include core aeration, re-seeding, tree and shrub spraying, tree injections for deep root feeding and disease control, total grub worm control, liquid and granular fertilizer treatments, fungicides for disease control and house foundation insect spraying.

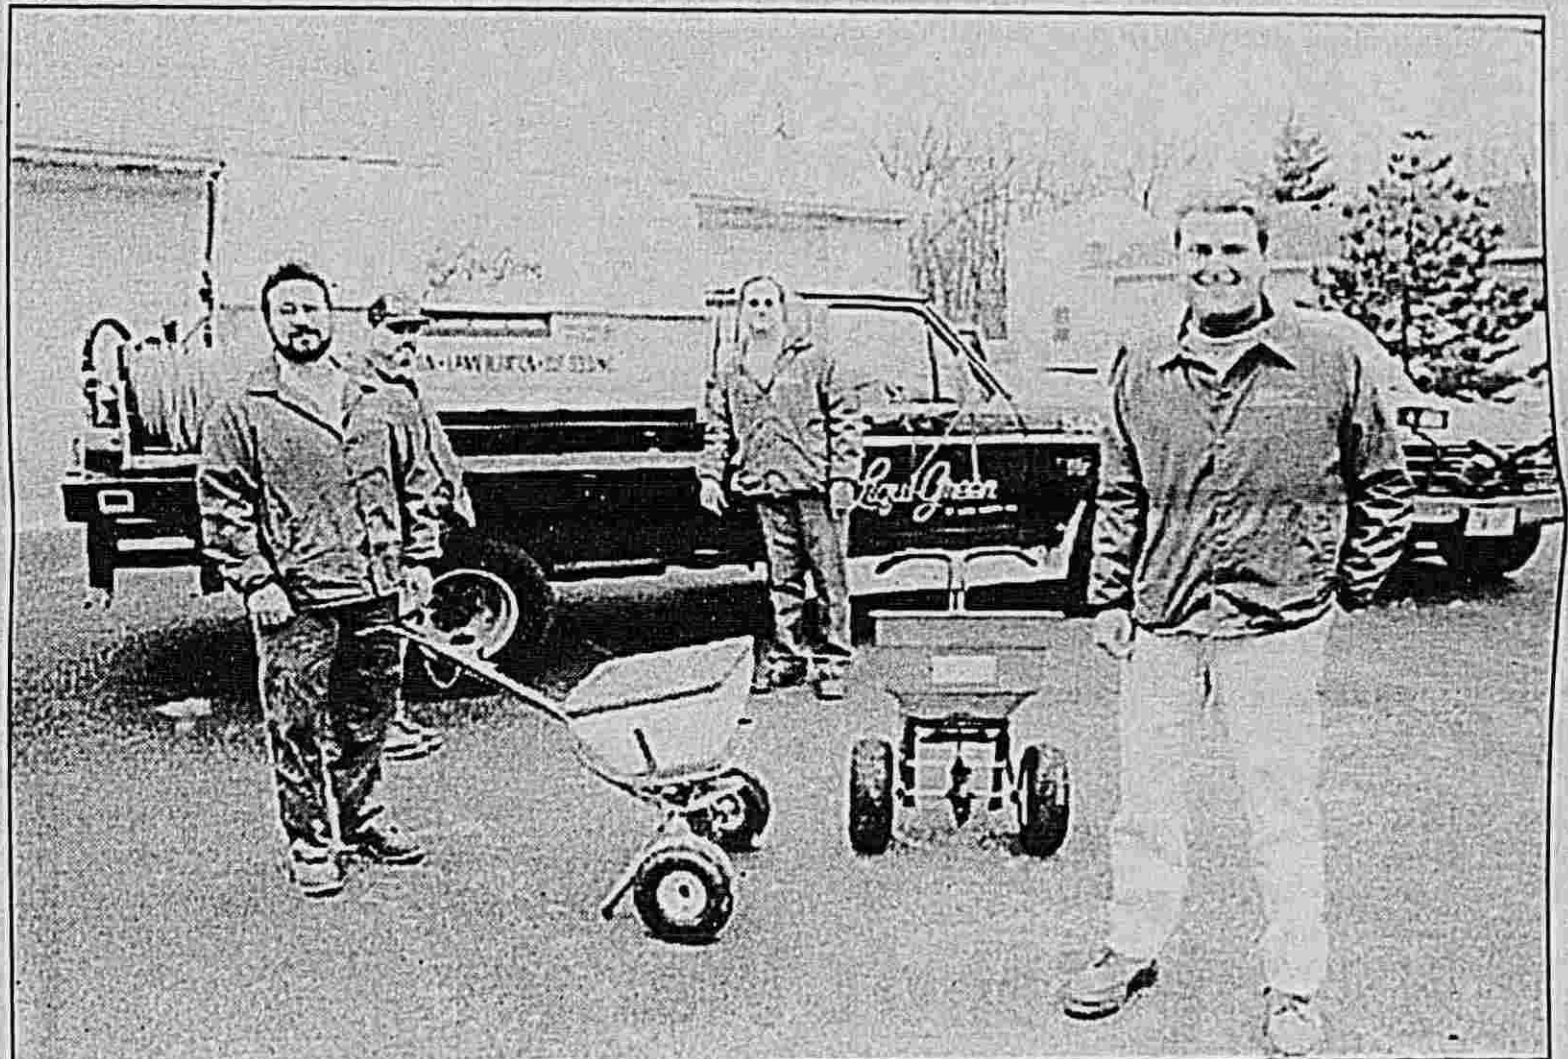

Seven years ago, in 1990, Paul Bergeson began working with Rick Gruber to bring Liqui-Green services to the northwest suburbs of Chicago.

In 1995, Bergeson, who has 10 years working in the lawncare industry, branched out on his own and started Liqui-Green of Lake Zurich, where he has lived for 12 years.

His lawncare company not only serves customers in Lake Zurich, but also in Wauconda, Long Grove, Kildeer, Hawthorn Woods, Vernon Hills, Mundelein and Libertyville.

Gruber, uses his 25 years of experience in lawncare, etc. by owning and operating the Liqui-Green franchise that serves customers in Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights and Palatine where he resides.

Liqui Green Franchises started in Peoria in 1953, and now, 44 years later, it is a national company with 30 franchises spread all over the United States.

"We do a better job because we spend more time, giving our work the personal touch," said Bergeson. He added that Liqui

Green strives to serve the community.

Gruber, who has worked for other companies in lawncare says "I prefer the Liqui Green program because it is more agronomically sound. It is a smaller approach, which means a one on one relationship with my customers."

For more information and the best in lawn and tree care, call Bergeson at (847)540-9303 or Gruber at (847)934-1600.—by GLORIA DAVIS

Power breakfast highlights summer tourism in Lake County

What can the Lake County business community expect in the way of tourism dollars this summer? Two of the market's largest attractions team up to provide the answers on April 2 when the Lake County Power Breakfast features "Summer Tourism in Lake County." Special guests for the monthly business forum, hosted by Midlane Country Club in Wadsworth, are Connie Costello, public relations director at Six Flags Great America and Joseph C. Szymaszek, general manager of Gurnee Mills.

"Summer tourism has a major impact on the economy of Lake County," commented Charles C. Isely, III, president/CEO of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce. "Most everyone in the area looks forward to the opening of Six Flags and are always interested in their new attractions. Gurnee Mills continues to grow and expand, too, and they have some interesting information on trends in the area. This is a great opportunity for local businesses to learn how they can benefit from this traffic."

Since 1991, Gurnee Mills has attracted an average of 13 million visitors annually. "That's a lot of money coming into the market," continued Isely. "We think everyone in the business community can get ideas about how they can attract some of that business, too."

Six Flags looks to another outstanding summer in 1997. The giant theme park, scheduled to open weekends on April 20 and daily from May 16 through Labor Day, has several exciting new attractions.

The new "Giant Drop" is billed as the "ultimate experience in thrill rides." Located in the park's Southwest Territory, the ride features a plunge from 200 feet above ground to the earth at speeds faster than 60 miles per hour.

The Lake County Power Breakfast is open to the public the first Wednesday of each month beginning at 7:30 a.m. at Midlane Country Club.

A re-broadcast of the power breakfast will be on U.S. Cable at 7 p.m. Monday and Wednesday evenings beginning April 7.

Zion Park Dist. to host home show

The Zion Park Dist. will hold its 20th annual Home and Trade Show April 11 through 13 at the Zion Leisure Center. The Home and Trade show involves more than 90 exhibitors of home improvement related products and services, the majority of which are based in Lake County.

Another important feature of the Home and Trade Show is the opportunity to make direct contact with potential customers and clients. Bank, real estate agencies, and home remodelers are regular participants at the show.

Businesses and organizations that would like to participate in the home show should call 746-5500.

Sterling Finish named collision repair business of the year

The collision industry consulting group, Business Development Group, named Sterling Finish, Inc. the "North American Collision Repair Business of the Year" in the category of large single-location facilities.

The goal of the award is to recognize the achievement of individual collision repair facilities with regard to improving the level of customer service, quality and professionalism within the entire industry. The winning shop is selected from a field of nominees submitted by the subscribers of Body Shop Video magazine. A final group of nominees have a video taken of their facility and its unique features. The video is viewed by other shops and ballots are cast via fax.

Located at 34752 N. Rte. 45, Lake Villa, Sterling Finish, Inc. serves a local market of approximately 400,000 people and has annual sales of $6 million. According to Sterling Finish, Inc. Vice President Gordon Bockwinkel, "this award provides recognition of our team of people who have worked to create a truly unique collision repair experience for our customers."

Sterling Finish, Inc. was founded in 1985, when Gordon and Greg Bockwinkel opened the business in a garage in Mundelein. Since then, the company has grown from a startup company with three employees to a $6 million company with more than 60 employees. In 1993 the 30,000 square foot facility was expanded to 72,000 square feet and features an expansive lobby and indoor estimating boulevard, well equipped work bays, paint spray booths, large detailing area, training center and administrative offices.

The unique U shaped facility has a car moving quickly through in an assembly line manner. The two story facility, with an elevator to move vehicles, operates two shifts 20 hours per day to achieve optimal productivity for the significant capital investment and to improve the speed at which vehicles are repaired.

To assist in the control of this large operation the Bockwinkel's brought in now partner Sean Wilson to design, code and implement a proprietary Windows 95, 32 bit software package (industry first) to handle estimating, scheduling, job costing, parts management, accounting and production control. They sold software to other shops for a time but have recently refocused on expanding the collision repair shop to additional locations. Sterling Finish, Inc. plans on expanding throughout the Midwest in the next few years.

Sterling Finish, Inc. will be having an open house for the general public April 7 from 2 to 5 p.m. This time will allow the public to view the unique production environment and also see two race cars which feature the same European polyurethane paint used in the shop. The cars are that of Dale Earnhardt (NASCAR Winston Cup Champion No. 3 Monte Carlo) and the Busch Grand National car of Mark Green.

GOP detectives

I think the Republican party should change its name to the Investigator party. All they're doing in Washington is having one investigation after another, wasting tons of time to investigate the Democrats. Now that President Clinton has fallen, we'll probably have an investigation over whether or not he was drinking. God forbid if the Democrats were to tell on the Republicans. To me, both parties are the same. They both do fundraising the same, and so forth.

Grade: average

We'd like the village trustees of Lake Zurich to know we filled out the form for the police department. We gave them an average because we've had both good and bad, especially bad concerning the chief of police, who was arrogant and rude. We think the police department shouldn't be doing their own survey. I'd give myself a 95 percent satisfaction rate for my job if I was doing it, too.

Widespread disgrace

The disgrace of drunken driving is widespread. It is not new to this country. It certainly has nothing to do with the qualification of victims, the legal status, heritage, or social position of the legions of drinking drivers who regularly get behind the wheel, endangering themselves or others.

Play elsewhere

I'm calling about the guitar player on Blackburn Drive in College Trail, Grayslake. I wonder if they're aware that this is a neighborhood of young children. They've now had their Sunday afternoon nap shattered by all the noise. If you want to play your guitar, why don't you get an apartment downtown, where nobody cares about this.

Need Chinese restaurant

Island Lake needs a good Chinese restaurant again. We miss the one we used to have. We also need good shopping. We try to patronize our local businesses whenever possible, but as many Island Lakers we go out of town to Omni and Walmart, etc. in Mchenry because of prices and selection.

Thanks for service

I'd like to give a great big thank you to the former Mundelein High School board member Don Smith, for 19 years of dedicated service on the District 120 board. Don represents volunteerism in its purest form. Unfortunately, now the district may be totally in the hands of the school administration. Through the years, Don's strong suit was fiscal responsibility and he was often the only dissenting vote on votes for fluff programs. Don was the only consistent financial watchdog on the board and simply got tired of being the only one to ever raise a question against a spendthrift administration's steady move away from educational fundamentals.

Keep markers

I'm calling to say the concrete street markers that Grayslake has, the green and white ones, are a wonderful landmark here. Not a lot of villages have them. I think we should keep them and upgrade them and refurbish the beat up ones and install new ones at new intersections.

Need help

I called the Home for Battered Women and wanted to volunteer and teach the women there how they can clean houses and start their own business. They said they'd call back and never did. I think this is bad news. These women need to be helped. I was one of them at one time.

Black kettle

Here's an example of the pot calling the kettle black: Member of Congress Henry Hyde from Illinois is now researching impeachment processes for the presidency. We may all recall it was Rep. Henry Hyde who recently got off scot-free from prosecution with his involvement in the Savings and Loan collapse of the 1980s. He was a director of a savings and loan.

Obey the law

This is for the moron that lives on Wilson Road in Ingleside who's complaining about the babies on Blackhawk and Ingleside Roads. I personally do not care if people use our road. That is their right. However, I have a problem that the people who do use the road and have a blatant disregard for the law and speed down the road. They're going way over the speed limit. I wanted to live in a neighborhood where my kids can ride their bikes down the street safely. Go ahead and use the road, but obey the law.

What are rules?

I've noticed in the area of 100 Forest Ave. that a new building was constructed in the last 12 months immediately next to an old shed. Why is there no requirement to either tear the shed down, or to move the building a reasonable setback distance from the shed? We have two buildings constructed adjacent to each other right now, with no separation inbetween. Where is our building department?

School lessons

Do police persons go to school to learn how to push down on suspect's heads when putting them into squad cars? If so, it's just another example of your tax dollars at work.

No to dress code

It's interesting that Round Lake School District 116 wants to implement a dress code for grammar and high school students. It makes no sense. I don't know what they want to do. This is America. As long as the kids come to school clean and hygienic, that's all they should care about.

Driver beware

Hainesville has their speed trap and Hawthorn Woods has theirs. After getting their $1 token breakfast at the local eatery, this is their very next stop: Indian Creek Road. We sure don't see them much anymore inside our subdivision, they're where the money is.

Sick of Bubba

I'm sick of all the garbage in the media calling the president Bubba. His name is Bill Clinton and he's the president. I don't care if you like him or not, show him some respect.

Quit griping

Why is everyone griping about stupid things? In Fox Lake, they need to wake up. It's run by old people. There's nothing for kids. I've lived here for 20 years. They want a park by a busy train and road. They should make a park where kids don't have to cross a busy road or be near a train. What if something were to happen? The community center needs to be rented out if the kids want to do something. It's just a big bingo hall.

Take care of streets

For Ms. Geo-Kariss and Mr. Churchill and all the future politicians of Antioch Township, please take care of your township streets. Potholes are all over. It's a shame we have to do this throughout the winter. We need your help!

Not the forum

In Pat Weiss' column in the paper, she thanks Mr. Eschenbach for putting to rest "The rumor and misconception that Wauconda had pumped untreated sewage or stormwater into Bangs Lake. It never happened." I don't believe her column is the proper venue for an obviously politically motivated statement. Nonetheless, the statement was so ludicrous that I decided she must have been sniffing the chlorine and had a temporary lapse of common sense. Then I remembered that Pat is well known for scripting comedies. This was obviously a joke she's trying out for her next show.

Be responsible

I'm calling in response to "Re-evaluate." Illinois state laws do not need to be reevaluated regarding its policies on medical procedures when they pull someone's driver's license. There's no reason medical, medicinal, or otherwise that should entitle you to have your driving privileges returned. The key word is "privilege." It is not your God-given right to drive. I think there are way too many people who forget that. If you were involved in an incident that resulted in your driver's license to be taken away, obviously it was serious enough for the law to be involved. As for it ruining your life, wake up and pay the price. Be responsible for your actions.

Better luck

Evidently some homeowner had better luck with builders than I did. If it's going to cost the builder any amount of money to fix the repairs, they won't fix it. They have more time than you have money. Why should you have to get an attorney and sue the builder for something he was already paid for? The only ones running down the neighborhoods are the officials in Lake County, who are letting these builders build the homes with many defects in them. If they had to answer more closely with officials, they wouldn't get away with as much.

Response

Regarding "Disgrace" in March 14 Lipservice: First of all, I am my father's only daughter. Secondly, alcohol had a big factor in his death, but what right does an illegal alien have being in this country, whatever country he's from. My father fought and worked hard for his country and family and someone with no respect takes it all away. Thank you for defending illegal aliens.

Move sign

Hey, Eastlake Estates, I have a solution for you. Why don't we just move the "Welcome to Round Lake Beach" sign to the north side of Avon School, then everybody will be happy. Why don't you guys quit whining and worry about what's really important—our children and their education.

Mayor prepared

I'd like to comment on the recent village board meeting in Wauconda. I think it's unfair that people attacked Mayor Eschenbach about a problem we've had in Wauconda for years (the sewers). The mayor was great and prepared, and had all the facts and information needed and answered every question dramatically. Good job, mayor!

Beware

In the middle of April, a man will be released from prison. He'll return to Round Lake to live off of Cedar Lake Road. He's a pedophile. Please be warned. Tell your children. Teach them. It's not always a stranger we need to be aware of. He's a great friend-maker and he could be your friend. Just be careful. Tell your kids. He's done it to many little girls and is being released after only five years.

Not fun

I'm wondering if anyone saw the meeting of the Lake Zurich trustees and mayor. See LIPSERVICE page C11 talking about the Recreation Department and their activities. They were all so excited about how wonderful it was. It's not so wonderful for the residents who live around these parks. One park has recreation activities going all day Saturday and Sunday, and during the week in the summertime. These people never get quiet time outside their homes. Some of the homes have sold and turned over a couple of times. There should be something worked out for the residents in these areas.

Pinheads

What do daytime talk show hosts in the news have on TV? They're all pinheads! That's what they have in common, nothing but macabre stories, never educational. Nothing but gloom and doom!

Take care of pets

Please take care of your house pets in inclement weather when left outside unattended. Please remember that these animals who live safely in your home don't have the type of coats in most cases that it takes to endure severe weather circumstances. If you love these pets and continue to care and provide for them, why do you insist on leaving them outside for hours at a time when the weather is unpleasant? Keep in mind that your pets depend on you and they can't ring the doorbell for you to let them in.

Better off

I'm calling about all the people who want sewer hook-ups to their houses. Who can afford a $10,000 hookup, plus another $100 a month forever for your water bills, which probably would go up and up. In some way, the lady who takes their clothes to the laundromat is better off than having the icky, rusty water from Lake Michigan.

Good advice

I thank you, Lakeland Newspapers, for printing the article on "Re-evaluation." Maybe if people read those comments, maybe they can understand that if you have a remote illness, you shouldn't attempt to drive. It will ruin your life, just as it ruined mine.

Buyer beware

I'm sick and tired of listening to Kim Hawley whine about the Island Lake sanitary district. Like the people who move next to an airport and complain about the noise, Mr. Hawley is childishly blaming everyone else for his stupidity. Ever hear of buyer beware? The sanitary district was there way before you were. The village of Island Lake doesn't need a political opportunist raising our taxes to solve the problems on his agenda.

Needs credibility

I think the Lipservice column would be a lot more credible and valuable if you required people to leave their names. I think that's the way it ought to work. What you're doing is allowing people to express themselves in an editorial type of way, without requiring them to leave their name and number like most legitimate papers do.

Where are you?

To the Antioch Police Department: We're getting fed up with not seeing you around. There was a scare at Heron Harbor on Heron Drive. It was completely ignored. We didn't see any patrol the following day after a scare of a man trying to pick up a child. I think you need to be more visible instead of hanging out at the White Hen.

Disappointment

It's pretty amazing how three high schools in Lake County won't be in a conference next year. These are Grant, Round Lake, and Wauconda. It's amazing that no other conference has picked them up or invited them to join their conference. It's discouraging as a Grant alumni to know that your team isn't going to be in a conference. The Grant Bulldogs have been in the Northwest Suburban Conference since the school opened in 1930. The athletic directors of these schools should have sought out a conference when they knew about this.

Fix Route 134

In the upcoming elections, I hope whoever gets elected and has anything to do with roads, will fix Route 134 all the way through Lake County. It's the worst road we possibly have.

Proper credit

I'm calling in regard to the article who appeared in the March 21 issue, "Round Lake High School comes up clean in drug sweep." They talk about not only the drug sweep at the high school, but Magee Middle School. I happen to be a parent of kids who attend both schools. I see Mary Davis once again pats herself on the back. She talks about how she is pleased with how everything turned out, and praised the police and fire departments, etc. I do believe she should have mentioned praise for the students for keeping the school drug free, and extending a little bit of thanks to parents, who may instill at home how important it is to stay drug and gang free.

Why no revenue?

This is in reference to the "Grassroots Party points to record" in the March 14 issue of the Fox Lake Press. I was a member of the group behind the Time Team who finally convinced the Grant Supervisor to hold joint meetings with the county, surrounding towns and townships, and even laid out the format and got the speakers. Another member of the group discovered that the township was allowing a farmer the use of 40 acres of township land—gratis. After it was brought to the attention of the Township Board, this citizen suggested the proposed township recreational facility be brought back into play along with a plan for township Community Gardens on the Molitor Road property. The supervisor was the clerk in 1986—from the purchase date in 1982 to 1986 the land was leased. Why has there been no revenue in the last 10 years from this property? That kind of money could have been used in the recreational area. It was a third member of this citizen's group that can be credited with formulating the Grant Township Planning Commission and bringing it to actuality (two years ago).

Let me know

I'm looking for anyone who would know what people are looking for in a daycare provider. I'm a daycare provider that offers many things, and it just doesn't seem to be enough. I'd like to know from people out there who have daycare what they look for.

Welcome, Jerry

Your recent addition to the staff of Jerry Pfarr is overwhelming. Things at Lakeland couldn't be better! Welcome back to bear country, Jerry. Let's all enjoy his intelligent, productive journalism.

No Camelot

I was reading where a woman said she tried to contact the village about a drainage problem. She said no one would return her calls or listen to her. We have the same problem. It's all over town. I see drainage problems in front of people's houses. I don't think you should have to run for trustee to get your drainage problems fixed. There's something wrong. On TV it sounds like Camelot, but it's not.

Thanks, no thanks

This is directed to comments appearing in March 21 called "Charity first." Just to let you know, your kind offer of 40 cents doesn't quite make it. The Lake Zurich person stranded was headed to a meeting. He first called his employer, called his meeting director, and called his car insurance company who put him on hold three times, and called a towing service. One call only was local. Thank you for your financial offer, but you should make the donation to your church.

Bosworth's improvement earns MVP honor

STEVE PETERSON
Staff Reporter

Grant High boys basketball coach Tom Maple knew what he could expect from Chuck Bosworth when the 1996-97 season started.

"I was expecting he would provide some leadership the offensive and defensive end and shoot a little," Maple said.

Bosworth exceeded expectations as did the Grant Bulldogs in a memorable 19-9 season. The squad captured the final Northwest Suburban Conference boys basketball title - the school's 10th. Bosworth, who went from a reserve last year to 12-points a game and team leader this year, wins the season's MVP from Lakeland Newspapers.

Bosworth finished with 328 points, shot 75 percent from the field and free-throw line.

"It was just his overall improvement," Maple said.

Bosworth's best game came as the Bulldogs won a regional game as he scored 22 points and Grant downed Antioch. He said that was his most memorable coupled with his team earning a first-round home game for the first time in 12 years.

Grant was bounced by sectional champ Deerfield in the regional final.

He knows what he will remember most from the senior-dominated group.

"We have been playing basketball together since fifth grade," Bosworth said.

Bosworth helped his younger brother Wayne get used to the ways of the varsity after being told of the need for a frosh to give the Bulldogs an outside shooting force.

"Chuck provided a bridge to help Wayne from junior high to varsity. He gave him tremendous support and took a lot of pressure off the coaches," Maple said.

Bosworth earned the NWSC's honor as its MVP.

As for the future, Wayne will be looked upon as a soph leader next year. Chuck will continue his music career - he performs national anthem before each Grant home game and may be a walk-on hoops player at a small college.

This year's first team centers around some talented pivot and forward players. There is Luke Moo, Warren's 6-foot, 6 inch senior forward who helped WTHS a 62-win stretch in three seasons and was 21-7 last year; senior J.R. Jurcko, a 6-7 tower of strength from Libertyville; 6-10 Thor Solvorson of Lake Zurich, an all-fox Valley Conference pick.

The guards are high-scoring John Lindsey of Wauconda, who is capable of scoring 30 points a game plus and junior Luke McKnight of LHS.

The reserves are led by high-scoring Chris Groth of Antioch. Who could forget his memorable 16-point fourth quarter which was nearly enough to upset North Suburban champ Warren in the regular-season finale; Warren's James Williams who led the team in scoring with 14 points a game; three-point specialist John Zitko of Lake Zurich and Sam Graves, who sparked a strong second half of the season for Stevenson.

Honorable mention players include: junior John Koch of Carmel, who qualified for the state tourney's three-point competition; Jeff Dobbertin of Johnsburg; Grayslake's Keith Walsh who averaged 12.6 points a game; Wauconda senior Jeff Gertz and Dave Fries, Grant's leading scorer at 14 points per game.

Memorable games include: Grayslake upsetting Grant in the first round of the NWSC, one of only two Grant league losses; Warren's 69-63 win over Libertyville which gave it the edge it needed for the NSC; Carmel's near upset of Warren in the regional's first round overtime clash; Warren holding off Antioch 65-62 for the SC title; Lake Zurich's ability to win close games down the wire with senior leadership.

ness had owed. Back then I diligently photocopied both sides of cancelled check 1129 for that amount, and sent off the copy to the Department along with the usual pile of documenting paper to show the tax bill had been paid. I had done it many times, each with more forms but always with copies or mention of the same cancelled check 1129. The last time I mailed a package was Jan. 26, 1989. I did it then because a Department employee had called me and directed me to mail documentation to his attention. I did so. It was addressed to P.O. Box 310, Wauconda, IL 60084. His name was on the package, to his attention, just as he told me to do.

Seventeen months later, in May of 1990, the only explanation I had for an Ill. Dept. of Revenue agent appearing at my door to again collect the $159 along with $44.06 interest and penalties was bureaucratic bungling by the Department. I knew I had paid the tax.

Who was that employee who apparently received and bungled my last pile of paperwork in Jan. 1989? None other than today's candidate Shawn Depke, who is using his experience with the Dept. of Revenue to qualify himself to be elected to the position of Warren Township Supervisor. He claims his experience with the department will make him a better township supervisor.

When bucks start

Editor:
Those in the know, know that Jack Martin is the man behind Taxpayers for Good Government. What most don't know is where that seemingly grass roots organization gets a big chunk of its money—until now. This is public information anyone can obtain at the County building in Waukegan. But I, being the good samaritan I am, and in light of Martin's latest attack in the papers about who is or isn't influenced by developer donations, will save you the trip.

Here are some of the highlights:

Lakewood Homes-$1,000; Kimball Hill-$2,000; Zale-$4,500; Cambridge Homes-$7,100; Committee on Home Builders Issues-$17,000; United Homes-$1,500; Town and Country Homes-$4,000; Bob Depke-$1,000; Homes by Hemphill-$1,500; Sundance Homes-$2,100; Orrel Pickell Builders-$140; Lexington Homes-$2,000;

That's just over $4,500 from 1992 through 1996. So, who is that you say is backed by the developers, Mr. Martin? Of course, there is nothing illegal about these donations and no intent to imply any such thing. Just a little information for you to keep in mind. For some reason, the newspapers who printed his letter to the editor, haven't seen fit to inform you. Course, it is a fact that more homes equal more advertising revenue which equals more profit. That is the American way after all.

Employee offended

Editor:
The campaign literature of assessor candidate, Peggy Freese, is not only inaccurate but offensive to me as an employee of the Libertyville Township Assessor's office.

Since June of 1996 I have had the privilege of working with the exceptional staff that Peggy Freese accuses of not caring about the taxpayers of Libertyville Township. Her rationale for this accusation is that most of the staff (not all, as Freese states) are non-residents.

Assessor Jagla has chosen his staff carefully based upon their superior qualifications and credentials, not because of where they live, and clearly this has benefited the taxpayers of Libertyville Township. Of the 3,000 assessment officials in Illinois only 99 have Advanced Certification from the Illinois Property Assessment Institute. Libertyville Township employs four of them. Every full time person in the Assessor's office is a highly qualified, well educated professional.

Invoke term limits

Editor:
Marilyn Sindles is running to be the mayor of Mundelein for the next four years. Allen Stubitsch is running to bring new ideas and fresh management talents to village government.

Mayor Sindles' style of "business as usual" places Mundelein in the position of reacting to happenings. Stubitsch's style of proactive leadership will have Mundelein influencing happenings before they occur.

Mayor Sindles has had eight years to implement her comprehensive plan and to do whatever else it is she wanted for Mundelein. The concept of "term limits," suggests that eight years is the allotted time to get your plans and programs in place.

Stubitsch's positive work ethic will set the tone and standards that will position Mundelein to deal decisively with future happenings.

Go back to basics

Editor:
Wendy Tepper is recommended as trustee in Warren

Township. She comes from a business family who has been actively involved in politics for many years. To date Wendy is a business woman in her own right. Besides being a wife and mother, and also serving as a district liaison for Congressman Phillip Crane, and a volunteer for other political entities.

Personally speaking, such old-fashioned attributes as honesty, integrity, and character are so often lost along with the heart of a human. However, Wendy possesses these characteristics that stem deep from within and in no way are superficial attributes. She has the loving support of her husband and daughter and some history in the community adding to her wisdom. Let's bring our life back to the simple basics and give Wendy Tepper and Sue Simpson a vote in that direction.

No cooperation

Editor:
A major issue of this year's election for Grayslake Park District Commissioner has been cooperation between governmental bodies. This was also my concern when I ran for commissioner two years ago. While agreements have been executed to construct the school roadway, and to allow the park district temporary use of the old police station, I know after working with them for two years that the village is not fully cooperating with the park district. Here are a few samples:

A major factor interfering with park district growth, admitted by both sides at that time, was a poor working relationship with the village government. Because I was acquainted with some village trustees, the park district board authorized me to lead an effort to resolve the differences between the agencies. During our first meeting it was agreed to start anew. The park district asked the village for a partnership on a community center. The park district would attempt a state grant. The village would somehow raise additional funds and stated that landfill money could not be used for that purpose. We, the park district, looked forward to working cooperatively with the village. The mayor stressed that there should be no surprises.

The very next day, to the surprise of the park district, the village announced its plan for a community center/pool with no mention of the park district. The village rejected (and continues to reject) park district participation in designing the center. A trustee said the center was not for the park district.

The park district offered the village thousands of dollars of completed research on a community center for Grayslake, but it was rejected. The village refused a 99 year lease of park land but insisted on owning some choice park property. My idea of a combined park district/village board to manage the center was also rejected by the village. The village sent an agreement to the Park District for signing, favoring the village, but not in the best interest of the park district. Meanwhile, the park district is criticized by the village for not supporting the project. These are only a few examples of the many unsuccessful experiences the park district has had in trying to cooperate with the village.

To force the park district into submission, the village has blocked numerous park construction projects and has eliminated park participation in accepting developer and landfill donations. With the knowledge of the village, their broken overflow gate for draining Grayslake has caused the continual flooding of Jones Island.

While a candidate for Grayslake community Park District commissioner in 1994, I was urged by certain community leaders to attempt the termination of the park district director. I did not act upon this urging. Instead, I worked hard to learn about the district, My responsibilities as a commissioner, and build a good working relationship with other commissioners. As a commissioner, I must act in the best interest of the people and uphold the park district's efforts to serve our growing population. The work of our board is more difficult and our progress hampered when only one side is cooperating. I hope we can move forward in better spirits after the April 1, election.

How To Survive
The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Dear Search,

Please help me out with a problem I am faced with. I am a high school graduating senior and in the process of writing a resume and filling out employment applications. I have been asked for references but since I have no work history in my past I am at a loss for what to use as far as references. What do you suggest? Thanks for your time.
T.G.—Deerfield

Dear T.G.,

It may appear to be a rather difficult task to come up with references if there is no prior work history, however at this point concentrate on character references. You most likely will find that you have a few choice individuals who will attest to your character being sound. Here are a list of a few:

1. High school Guidance Counselor
2. Teachers
3. Clergymen
4. Friends of family who have known you for many years.

You may remember that you mowed lawns for a specific family who would be willing to give a reference on how responsible or meticulous you are about your work. There may have been a family that you did babysitting for quite some time ago who may be willing to tell an employer how reliable and dependable you were. Whom ever it is that you intend to use as a reference, the most important thing to remember is to contact any person that you plan to use. You don't want to have these people caught off guard by having them receive a call asking about someone they may not remember at that instance. How do you go about contacting them to ask for this. You may want to contact your high school Guidance Counselor by telephone and ask if he/she would help you by writing a letter of recommendation for you to use with potential employers. Offer to come by and pick it up to expedite the situation. Contact teachers in the same respect. If unable to reach them during the summer months due to school being out of session, contact your administration office. Most often, they know where to get in touch over the summer months and perhaps they would leave your telephone number for the teachers to call you back. Contacting clergy speaks for itself, and friends of the family..well, if you contact them by telephone or go to visit, all you have to do is ask! While I am in the market for employment, would you at all mind if I were to use as a character reference? That way..no surprises! Good luck to you!

Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee.

PET OF THE WEEK

Beauty, Brains & Blue Eyes!

"KAIYA" is an incredibly beautiful female husky mix. Just four years old, Kaiya has a semi-long, shaggy, black/cream/silver coat that's luxuriously soft and dense to the touch. Perk ears, a fringe tail, and ice blue eyes complete this beautiful picture. But Kaiya's beauty goes far beyond appearance. This sturdy built mid-size dog has a calm and very sweet personality. She is alert and very attentive, and intelligence just shines out of those incredible blue eyes. Kaiya will respond well to training and her affectionate nature and love of people will make her an outstanding addition to your family. It's truly hard to understand how such a terrific dog has been at the shelter since July of 1996. If you like huskie type dogs, you'll love our Kaiya. Come and see her in Cage 64, and give her the home and the family she deserves.

ALL DOGS BENEFIT FROM BASIC HOUSEBREAKING & OBEDIENCE TRAINING WHICH HELPS BOND DOG TO OWNER. CRATING IS RECOMMENDED WHEN THE OWNER IS AWAY FOR THE FIRST YEAR IF NEEDED.
